THE WILLIAMS RE-UNION

Annual Gathering Held at Miles Grove

3000 PEOPLE PRESENT

Splendid Addresses by Rev. Geo. W. Downing, Rev. A. C. Lathrop, Rev. Elmer Williams, Prof. G. E. Ardery and Others.

A DAY IN THE WOODS WELL SPENT

Among the early pioneer settlers of beautiful Bald Eagle Valley in Centre County were the members of the Williams family who located here early in the history of the county. They moved here when the greater part of this section of the state was a wilderness and began the work with a number of other residents to cut down the forests, build homes, cleared the land for cultivation and established schools and churches. Many privations and hardships were suffered by these early Williams' the fruits of which the present generation are now enjoying.

On Saturday September 7th. the annual re-union of the Williams family, which includes the Hartsock's and the Woodrings' and many others, was held in John Q. Miles beautiful grove near Martha Furnace. It is one of natures delightful places, an ideal spot for holding an outing situated in Bald Eagle Valley noted for its beautiful scenery, well cultivated farms and prosperous, hospitable people. It was amid these pleasant environments that between 2500 and 3000 people of the descendents and friends of these people gathered. The day was ideal and thus was heartily enjoyed.

The crowd came from far and near, driving, on foot and by rail until when the noon hour came the grove was full of happy, joyous people gathered around tables enjoying the many good things to eat the housewives had prepared. There was plenty for everybody and everybody was welcome.

The exercises during the day were very interesting. In the morning at 10:30 the people were called together and after music by the Scotia band, President A. S. Williams introduced Rev. Warren Dillon who invoked the divine blessing on the assemblage. The address of welcome was delivered by Prof. G. E. Ardery, of Martha, who made everybody feel at home. It was responded to by Rev. A. C. Lathrop, formerly of Milesburg, but now of Clearfield. This concluded the exercises of the morning and all prepared for dinner.

Ye scribe in company with several others had the pleasure of invitation to dinner at the hospitable home of O. D. Eberts, the merchant at Martha. It was one of the finest dinners we ever sat down to and everyone did full justice to it. Those present were Mrs. Susan Ketley, Fleming; Mrs. Brisben and four children, of Tyrone; Mrs. Tabitha Brisben, Lemont; Mrs. George O. Benner, Centre Hall, W. Francis Speer, Edward L. Gates and the writer all were delighted with the hospitality shown them by Mr. and Mrs. Eberts and their sister, Mrs. Benner.

In the afternoon the exercises began at 1:30 in the grove. Addresses were made as follows: Rev. Geo. W. Downing, of Alexandria, subject "Character Building;" Rev. G. A. Williams, Pine Grove Furnace, subject "Chiselings;" Rev. A. C. Lathrope, Clearfield, subject "The Greatest Product of our Country." There was also an address by Rev. Elmer Williams, of Chicago, which was listened to with close attention. This young man is making a splendid success of his chosen calling in the West. He is home on a two weeks visit and his many friends were glad to see him.

In the evening we had the pleasure of taking supper on the ground with Mr. and Mrs. George Fink. And my how good it tasted. All the good things imaginable were there and in abundance. Mr. Fink's little son who has been in the hospital at Bellefonte for ten months was at home for a short stay. He is looking much improved and will soon be well and hearty again although the little fellow has had a pretty serious time of it.

There were two games of ball during the day. In the morning Vail played Port Matilda, the latter winning by the score of 21 to 5. In the afternoon Unionville and Waddle played an exciting game the former winning by the score of 8 to 7.

Everything passed off smoothly during the day. The nearest approach to a serious accident was the one that befell Mrs. G. O. Benner, of Centre Hall. She was talking to some friends when a young man passed her smoking, a spark from his cigar lighted on her white skirt and setting it on fire. The skirt was badly burned but Mrs. Benner escaped uninjured.

We cannot close this article without complimenting the management on the success of the picnic and also the Scotia band for their splendid playing. This is one of the finest bands in Centre County and is certainly a top-notcher. They were assisted on Saturday by Scott Lose and Samuel Bryan, of Bellefonte.

Although it was a day that will long remain green in the memory of those so fortunate as to present.

REV. SAMUEL CREIGHTON.

Fatally Stricken Saturday at his home in Mackeyville.

The many friends of Rev. Creigton in Bellefonte and in fact throughout Central Pennsylvania, will be pained to know that the long and useful life of this popular minister of the Methodist church, who served many congregations, has drawn to a close.

Saturday afternoon Rev. Creighton was stricken with anoplexy at his home near Mackeyville. He became unconscious at once, and remained in that condition until death. Dr. J. M. Dumm the attending physician, with Dr. R. B. Watson, of Lock Haven, who was called in consultation, gave it as their opinion that the stricken minister could not live over 24 hours. He passed away at 2:30 Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Creighton was born at Freedom, Mifflin county, Pa., and is about 72 years of age. He was converted at the age of 19 years, and licenced to preach at a quarterly conference held at Karthaus, joining the Baltimore conference in 1854. He preached first at Karthaus as a supply in 1854, and his first appointment was at Manor Hill. He was pastor of Pine street church, Williamsport, from 1879 to 1881, and again from 1888 to 1902, being followed by the Rev. T. S. Wilcox. He retired from preaching in 1893, but afterward served the charge at Lewistown for a year, then retiring to his home at Mackeyville, where he has since resided.

Mr. Creighton's wife died while he was stationed at the Fifth Avenue church at Altoona some years ago. Mr. Creighton was one of the best known Methodist divines in Central Pennsylvania.

Women, Women Don't Drop so Low.

We sincerely hope that the Bellefonte girls will not begin to wear bracelets on their ankles like they are doing in Philadelphia.

Mr. Al Garman was standing in his brother Richards jewelry store in Philadelphia on Saturday and a beautiful woman came in and asked for a pair of anklets. At first it was thought she wanted braces for her ankles but she explained to them that it was anklets she wanted. Mr. Garman left her try on several pair of costly bracelets on her ankles and among the lot she selected a handsome pair that cost a pile of money. She paid for them and had them put on and walked out tickled almost to death. Now what do you think of that? No wonder the men rubber after the pretty women as they pass by, and now that they are beginning to wear bracelets on their ankles they encourage the men all the more to gaze at their forms. Style or no style we sincerely hope our Bellefonte girls will not form the habit.

At State College

State College will open this fall with the largest enrollment in the history of the institution. The dormitories are all filled and students are coming in early in order to find homes in the town. Coach Golden is on hand getting ready for work, and feels the prospects for having a winning football team this fall are good. The new Agriculture building is ready to be opened, and the plans for a new athletic field are rapidly being completed. A new department of home economic will be instituted this year, which will be an addition to the course. Miss Louise Waugh, of Michigan, will be at the head of this department, and Miss Sarah Lovejoy formerly dean of National park seminary will be the dean.

GANS WON THE FIGHT

Fourteen Thousand People saw the big Fight at 'Frisco

BRITT WAS OUTCLASSED

His Lack of Coolness was Partly Responsible for the Result.

HE WAS TOO EAGER BY FAR

San Francisco, September 10th.—A left swing to the body cleverly blocked by Joe Gans, cost Jimmy Britt any chance he might have had to win the lightweight championship of the world today and brought to a close five rounds of fast fighting before 14,000 persons at Recreation park.

The deciding blow was caught by Gans on the elbow in the middle of the fourth round. The blow broke Britt's wrist, and though Britt went on again in the fifth round, he was helpless in both offense and defense. It was not until this round that he informed his seconds of the mishap.

"What's the use of my going on? I can't fight. I am helpless," Britt said to Tiv Kreling. Captain of Police Gleason was informed at the ringside and he stopped the fight. Referee Welch gave the decision to Gans. Three doctors, after an examination announced that the injury was a fracture and dislocation of the lower end of the ulna. Whether it was a genuine fracture or not, Britt showed such intense suffering while the doctors were manipulating his wrist that the tears rolled down his cheeks.

"I was utterly helpless," he said. "I could not even hold up my left hand after I broke it. I had to guard for Gan's left and had no punch except with my right."

The fight while it lasted was a slugging match, but it was evident to every trained observer that Britt had no chance to win from the negro. For the first time in his life Britt was outmatched.

Britt's lack of coolness was partly responsible for the miserable ending of the fight. From the first tap of the gong Britt appeared over eager. He was not content to take the advice shouted to him by his seconds to make Gans do the leading, but he rushed headlong into quarters that developed into an inevitable slugging match in which the champion had by far the advantage. In the first round Britt staggered Gans to the ropes with a left swing on the neck that had lots of force in it. In the same round he also used left and right very successfully to the body and face, but took in punishment a straight left on the nose that slowed him down.

The second round developed a mix up at the ropes in which both men exchanged vicious rights and lefts, Gans taking the advantage. In the third Gans followed his tactics of crowding Britt into a corner and the Californian had his hands and feet busy working his way out. The crowd was even.

Gans drew first blood in the fourth with a lightning straight left that brought a scarlet stream trickling from the corner of Britt's mouth. It was right after this that Britt proved his undoing.

Harry Williams Injured.

The Presbyterian Church at Lemont is being painted and frescoed and in fact is being remodeled all over. The work of painting and frescoing was assigned to Captain Williams, and for the past month he has had a crew of men busy at the work. Among them being Harry Williams one of the best painters and grainers in this part of the state. This morning while at work frescoing the ceiling the scaffoling gave way and he fell a distance of twenty-five feet lighting on the back of the church pews. He was picked up by some of the other men on the job and brought to Bellefonte on the morning train. We have not heard how serious he was injured but with the assistance of his brother Rash and Mr. McGinley he was carried to their carriage and taken home. It is thought some of his ribs are fractured. We sincerely hope that no serious results may come from the fall.

A Midnight Attack.

Al Rhoads Brutally Assaulted Near the P. R. R. Station on Saturday Night.

Bellefonte is getting to be a desparate place after night, and it is hardly safe to go unarmed for fear of being knocked down by some coward or brute. On Saturday night between the hours of eleven and twelve o'clock Al Rhoads was attacked by two men and brutally assaulted and had it not been for the timely assistance of the police he might have been a dead goner today.

Rhoads who is a quiet fellow and never known to quarrel with any one, was walking out along the platform above the P. R. R. station Saturday night after the show was out and when out in the dark he was attacked by Boyd Reed, a rough character around Bellefonte and a brick layer by the name of Allen from Williamsport. Reed had a club and knocked Rhoads down and when on the ground the two kicked and beat the fellow almost unsenciable and the noise and curses soon attracted the police who hurried to the rescue and quickly put a stop to the trouble, if they had not arrived at the time they did, Centre county would have had another murder trial. As it was, Rhoads was so badly injured that he was taken to the hospital where he is in a serious condition. Reed and Allen were locked in the cooler where they seem very remorseful for what they have done, and are trying to compromise with Rhoads and get the case settled. A puddle of blood just off the platform shows where Rhoads was knocked down and along the brick walk can be seen splotches of blood. We don't understand why the attack was made as Allen is a man who earns big wages and he really could not have been after money, we don't know what Reed was after, that is hard to tell. Rhoads had in his pockets over $80.00 in cash, but we don't think the assault was made for that. They say several women figures very conspicionsly in the case and if that is so, it will all come out at the hearing, which will be held whenever Rhoads is able to attend.

It is said by Allen's fellow workmen that he is a splendid fellow when sober, but a great fighter when full. He is a good workman and earns large wages.

Rhoads the fellow assaulted is about forty years of age and for several years drove one of Thomas Beaver's teams. He is a hard working fellow and wouldnt harm anyone. If the case is not settled before it goes to the Squire's office, it is very likely to go hard with Reed and Allen. This is only another case of a crime committed when a man is intoxicated. If these men had been sober they certainly would never of thought of doing what they did. Allen is one of the work men on the hospital and they had to finish the brick work by Wednesday, but if he does not get bail or the case settled it will delay the building another day.

LATER—The case was compromised and Reed and Allen were released.

Wonderful Power for Good.

In an address at the Odd Fellows picnic held at the Grange Park on Tuesday ex-County Supt. C. L. Gramley made a speech, taking for his theme the Orphange at Sunbury. He gave a full account of this benevolent enterprise, showing the great work that is being done at the Sunbury Orphans' Home. This home has at present sixty-seven children in charge and is overcrowed. So much so that they are now building a new home costing about $45,000, which will accommodate about 200 Odd Fellows orphans. President T. M. Gramley next stated that Pennsylvania is leading all the states in Odd Fellowship, there being over 1100 lodges, with nearly 140,000 members, in this state and during the last year they paid $683,948.71 total relief, or $1920 every day of the year, or $80.00 every hour.

Col. E. R. Chambers for District Attorney.

Colonel E. R. Chambers, in his letter accepting the nomination for District Attorney, said, "The farmer who works from day light to late evening at hard labor in order to meet his living expenses, should not be forced to pay extra taxes for mistakes made in our criminal courts. Larency, burgulary and murder have run riot in our county of late, and if I am elected I pledge myself to brake this up and stop it without unnecessary expense to the tax-payer.'

He is acknowledged to be the criminal lawyer in this county. Will you vote for him?

THE GREAT GRANGERS PICNIC

To be held Next Week at Centre Hall. To open This Coming Saturday.

FINE ENTERTAINMENTS

Over Four Hundred tents Rented. Great Sights to be Seen on the Midway Camp Meeting on Sunday;

MANY BELLEFONTERS WILL ATTEND

Possibly every farmer in Centre County will attend the Great Grangers Picnic next week. The management have erected about four hundred tents inside the twenty eight acres of land at Centre Hall and most every tent has been rented already. They are doing their best to have this the best picnic ever held, and in order to do so they have secured some of the best attractions traveling for their "Midway." The evening entertainments for the tenters and their friends will be the best that could be had. The stock and poultry exhibits will far excel other years, while the museum for old relic will be a curiosity worth seeing. The Picnic will open Saturday the 14th and continue all the next week. Below is a complete programme of the "doins" during the encampment.

Saturday, Sept. 14th—General opening of camp, and tent holders taking possession of the quarters assigned them.

7.30 p. m.—Encampment will be formally opened in the Auditorium by a grand entertainment by the Bible Concert Company, of Philadelphia, to which everybody is invited.

Sunday, 15th, 2.30 p. m.—Harvest Home services. The anniversary sermon will be preached by Rev. G. McIlnay, of the Methodist Episcopal church of Centre Hall.

Monday, 16th—General opening of Exhibition and Fair.

7.30 p. m.—Entertainment in the Auditorium by the Bible Concert Company.

Tuesday, 17th, 10.30 a. m.—Soldiers reunion.

2.30 p. m.—Addresses will be delivered in the Auditorium, under the auspices of the Veterns Association of Centcounty.

7.30 p. m.—Concert by the Bible Concert Company.

Wednesday, 18th, 10.30 a. m.—Addresses in the Auditorium by Hon. J. T. Ailman, Secretary of State Grange, and Hon. Robert S. Conklin, State Forestry Commissioner.

2.30 p. m.—Addresses by Dr. J. P. Welsh, Vice President of Penn'a State College, and E. B. Dorsett, Lecturer of the State Grange.

7.30 p. m.—Grand entertainment by Bible Concert Company.

Thursday, 19th, 10.30 a. m.—Addresses by Hon. N. B. Critchfield, Secretary of Agriculture, and Hon. John G. McHenry member of Congress.

7.30 p. m.—Entertainment by Bible Concert Company.

Friday, 20th.—Great bargain sale day when there will be general sales of implement and farm stock.

2. p. m.—Formal closing exercises.

The eminent men who are to address these daily meetings on the important issues of the day, in which people are interested, should insure good audiences and no one can afford to miss hearing them.

Special excursion tickets at reduced rates, from all stations in Pennsylvania and from Baltimore, Md., and Elmire, N. Y., to Centre Hall and return. Good from Sept. 13th to 23rd. In addition to the regular trains, special trains will be run Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, stopping at all stations.

Leaving Bellefonte for Centre Hall at 10.30 a. m. and 6.30 p. m.

Leave Grange Park for Bellefonte at 9.45 p. m.

Leave Grange Park for Coburn at 7.30 p. m.

Leave Coburn for Grange Park at 8.20 p. m.

THE LOGANS DEFEATED SHAMEFULLY.

The Business and Professional Men Put the Bumps to Them.

On Friday afternoon the Logan Base ball team met defeat at the hands of the Business and Professional Men of the town.

But the fire laddies went down with flying colors and took their trouncing like little gentlemen. The Combination was just a little too much for the bucks that handle the hose and from the very beginning of the game as early as the second inning it began to look kind of blue for them and they began to realize that the Combine was just a little stiff to crawl over. Otto and Irwin were the battery for the Logan boys up until the end of the sixth inning and it seemed as though Dutch was up in the air about something, because they batted him all over the field. Kline went in the pitchers box at the seventh inning and held the Business men down to one run from that until the end. He don't throw much of a curve but he seemed mighty hard to hit.

Curtin and Heinle was the battery for the "Combine" they seemed to have the fire laddies at their mercy, it was almost like clock work, one, two, three and the side was out. Keller did some fine grand stand stunts out on first and showed that he still had some of the old base ball training in him that he got at college although he was the only man that did'nt get home. He was left on bases several times but that didn't count. Moerschbacher who is sort of an old professional didn't try to play very hard but he was right on the spot when needed. He got two runs. Gargan the little "New Yorker" was there with the goods in centre field and landed some pretty flies. He got a run. Heinle got one and Curtin two. Blanchard who was out on second base with his yellow pants on got two runs. Ned made some dandy plays and earned a run by sliding over ten feet to the home plate, my, but the crowd did applaud him. He gracefully bowed and retired to brush the dirt from his shirt and trousers. Seibert went in the box to pitch the last three innings and did well, only one run was made on him, he is entitled with making two runs.

Crider out in left field had sort of a "snit" of it, hardly anything got out that far, but when he come up to the bat he showed the other fellows a thing or two and swelled the score one more. Billy Cassidy was there, and you all know Billy use to be an old base ball player and in fact he is full of the spirit today and was right there with the goods, he was away out in right and was like Crider, they took it easy. But Billy got a run all the samey.

Otto and Irwin are the boys that scored the runs for the Logan boys, but the other fellows never saw home plate until they stepped up to bat. Stoner Gheret and Saylor retired early in the game and their places were filled by Joe Shaughnessy and Earle Kline.

The Umpire of the game was "Shorty" Knisely and he being a Logan you would of thought he would decide just a little in their favor, but he didn't, everything was given fair and square.

The Transgressor.

By TROY ALLISON.

Copyrighted, 1907, by E. C. Parcells.

The young rector of St. John's adjusted the student lamp until it threw a mellow light on the library table and then pulled down the window shades. He had just settled himself comfortably in the Morris chair when the bell rang.

In a mere man of the world the slight elevation of the eyebrows produced by the sound of the bell would have been interpreted as despair or disgust at the interruption, but the Rev. John Courtney's only attitude toward the rebellion of the flesh was that he had spent a very busy, trying day and that even ordained flesh craves rest and solitude occasionally.

"You, Miss Manning!" he exclaimed in surprise as the girl was ushered in by the rector's housekeeper.

Marion Manning sat down in the armchair indicated and was silent from the moment's embarrassment.

"I came to ask your advice, Mr. Courtney. I'm in trouble," she said finally.

The rector wondered what could have happened in the quiet town to have brought such evident consternation to his young parishioner. Since his installation as rector of St. John's, six months before, he had known the girl and had become accustomed to meeting her at every function as the life and mirth of the occasion. Her look of woe was entirely unfamiliar to him.

"I'm very sorry, Miss Marion. What has happened?" he asked, with real concern.

"Nothing has happened, but I've committed a crime against the government," she said hopelessly.

"That sounds very grave."

The rector could not for the life of him keep from smiling at the innocent look of the self confessed criminal.

The girl spoke with a flash of spirit.

"You probably will not smile when I tell you the whole of it. I don't know, but I think I could be imprisoned if it were found out."

The rector still had difficulty in preserving a proper amount of gravity.

"Suppose you tell me all about it," he said.

She handed him a long official envelope.

"I have just received an appointment as a $900 clerk in the pension office at Washington," she said dolefully.

He took the envelope and looked at the appointment with less pleasure than he should have shown in view of the fact that he had known all the summer how anxiously the girl had hoped to hear from the civil service examination which she had taken in the spring.

"IT IS AN INVOLVED POINT OF ETHICS, MISS MARION," HE SAID FEEBLY.

"Where does the crime against the government come in?" he asked, looking helplessly from the innocent face to the innocent appointment to office.

"You know, I went to Columbia to take the examination. Well, if you remember, my friend Rose Lawrence went with me to keep me company and to buy her spring hat."

Mr. Courtney was more at sea mentally than before the introduction of a second character and a spring hat.

"Did she—er—buy the—er—hat?" he asked helplessly and from merely polite motives.

"Of course she bought a hat. You don't suppose that I have come here to tell you that we stole a spring hat, do you?" Miss Manning's scorn was withering, and the rector, who had always been considered the bravest of the brave and who owned college trophies for feats of sport and daring, sat abashed and humble before her.

"Er—certainly not—of course not, Miss Marion. I only thought I would try to talk about hats until you felt more at ease."

The girl's eyes twinkled.

"I would really like to hear you try to discuss spring millinery, Mr. Courtney, some day when I feel like laughing, but tonight—I don't feel like laughing a bit. The trouble is this: The morning the examination was held I was so sick I couldn't hold up my head, and Rose took the card admitting me to the examination and stood it for me."

The rector sat upright and gave an unministerial whistle.

"You poor little girl!" he said comprehensively.

"I have come to argue with you as to whether I can accept the appointment," the girl continued. "I want it, and I need it badly. There is no doubt that I could have passed the examination as cordially, or even more so, than Rose did. We were in the same classes at school, and my marks were always higher than hers."

The rector indulged in the—to him—unusual luxury of fidgeting in his chair and mopping his forehead with his handkerchief.

"It is an involved point of ethics, Miss Marion," he said feebly.

"I want you to clear it up for me, but I'm afraid I want you to see it my way," she acknowledged.

"You have come to fortify yourself by getting me to substantiate your opinion that you are justified in accepting the appointment?" he asked slowly.

"We will accept the premises that there was no fraud premeditated, that there was no reason for your preferring Miss Lawrence to take the examination except that you were temporarily too ill. You are by education entirely qualified to fill the position, and I think we may also claim that you have a more practical business mind and a stronger physique than Miss Lawrence, both of these being recognized as desirable business qualifications."

The girl's face grew brighter, and she nodded her head eagerly.

"You don't see how you could possibly be injuring any one. If you filled the position satisfactorily, you can't understand how you could be defrauding the government. I don't see that either," the rector concluded musingly.

The girl's face beamed upon him.

"Then you think I may take it? I need it so badly," she spoke with rapid intensity.

The rector leaned over and took her hand.

"Do you think you could feel happy and satisfied, little girl?" he asked, looking her squarely in the eyes.

Her eyes wavered and finally turned away from his.

"I thought perhaps I could, if you told me it was all right," she said faintly.

"I don't know how to explain it to you—it is a proof that is powerful, yet intangibly abstract. I can logically see no wrong in your accepting the position, yet I could not be happy to do so, and I feel sure you could not either."

"But I need it so badly," she faltered. "I only have $50 a year of my own, and I can't expect Uncle James to take care of me forever. I'm old enough to be self supporting."

The rector's countenance commenced steadily growing redder and redder.

"There are other things you could do," he said finally, with no trace of his usual brilliancy of speech.

"What?" she asked, her young voice stern with the responsibility of giving up something upon which her heart was set.

"I wish you would come and make the rectory homelike for me," he stammered.

"A minister couldn't marry a fraud and a cheat," she whispered, her face paling.

"Little girl, you are not a cheat—you simply met with a temptation. Will you go to Washington or will you come to the rectory?"

She picked up the official envelope that had fallen to the floor and looked at him hesitatingly.

"I don't think I'm good enough for a minister's wife, but you can be the judge in the case."

He caught a glimpse of her eyes and pronounced his sentence:

"Imprisoned for life, little woman," he said, taking her in his arms.

New England and Napoleon.

The hostility of New Englanders to the first Napoleon was sincere and deep. A remarkable instance of this feeling is to be found in the manner in which the townsmen of Boston received the news of his first abdication. The incident has been brought to notice through an interesting exhibit in the historical collections of the public library of that city. It is a ticket admitting the bearer to a "solemn festival at the Stone chapel, in commemoration of the goodness of God in delivering the Christian world from military despotism. Boston, June, 1814."

Kipling's Response.

The Canlab, the Cambridge university weekly, once asked Rudyard Kipling to contribute to its columns. In response came the following reply:

There once was a writer who wrote,
"Dear Sir—In reply to your note
Of yesterday's date,
I am sorry to state
It's no good at the prices you quote."

Yes, She Painted.

Young Getrox (admiring picture in parlor)—Does your sister paint, Margie? Little Margie—Yes, sir; but she's finished now, and as soon as she puts a little powder on she'll be right down.—Chicago News.

The Party Line.

HOW TO SMILE.

Don't Smile at All Unless You Can Smile a Pretty, Open Smile.

Unless you can smile a beautiful smile there isn't much use of trying to push your way onward in this world of misery. If things come your way, all well and good. If they don't, you can't make them. A smile is necessary in most cases to right things. If you don't know how to smile or can't smile, you are badly off.

Here is the recipe for a smile:

One pair of red lips that turn upward at the corners, the redder the better, and the sharper the upward curve the prettier the lips will be. The lips should also be full and what is called ripe. If your lips are not "ripe" you must learn how to ripen them.

For your smile, which is to be a permanent one, always ready when wanted, you will need a set of dimples. One will answer if you have no more. But it should be located in the chin. A chin dimple makes all the difference in the world when one is counting up one's good looks; in a smile it is half the battle.

In your smile you really ought to have cheek dimples. But these are difficult unless your face is fat. Still they are not impossible even to the thin cheeked girl. Dimples are so delightful when you are smiling. They are cheerful and persuasive.

Dentistry at home seems impossible, yet there are certain preventives which may come under the head of dentistry. The teeth play a very important part in the smile—in fact, there can be said to be no smile at all unless the teeth are nice; otherwise the smile is a mere grimace. It should not be attempted.

The habit of holding the hand up in front of the lips when one smiles to hide a defect in the teeth is to be deplored. It makes the one who smiles look awkward, and it defeats itself in that it merely calls attention to the fact that the teeth are poor. Don't smile at all unless you can smile a pretty, open smile.

CORSET ADVICE.

Wear One Pair One Day and Another the Next.

If you change your dress in the evening, change the corsets with the dress. If not, wear one pair one day and another the next. They will last as long again and keep their shape. Then carefully roll them up, first straightening gently, but firmly, steels or bones that have become bent by the figure's swelling. Do not accustom yourself to leaving off your corsets when tired or hot in the evenings. Wear them looser if you like, and when you are really ill keep an old but well fitting pair, but resist the middle aged instinct to flop and uncorset yourself. It accounts for more shapeless, sack figures than one realizes. When putting on your corset pull it well down before beginning to lace it. Make sure that the waist is in its proper place and not riding up at least an inch, as is generally the case with a careless woman. The whole effect of a corset, no matter how good, is spoiled by this. A pretty, trim figure is by no means difficult to obtain. Nor are expensive corsets an absolute necessity. Inexpensive ones can do wonders, and if a woman's income is such that she can afford to have her stays made to order she is to be congratulated. But she need not despair over ready mades, and those costing less than $5 at that. It is a great mistake to think it is ever necessary to lace. It is always undesirable and always inartistic. More ruined digestions, more red noses, more weak hearts and often more agonies of pain around the heart have been caused by this than by anything else.

NEEDLEWORK NOTES.

If a narrow tape is run in the bottom of your kimono gowns in the sleeves they may be tied in a bow and kept out of the way when one is working about the house.

In making bands on children's underwear it is a good idea to allow an inch at each end to turn back before making the buttonhole, as this makes the band much stronger and there will be less tearing of garments.

A useful thing for mothers who have plenty of mending to do for small boys and girls is gum tissue. It can be placed under thin spots in elbows and knees, used to patch a rent in a hurry and gives a stiff background to revers or collars made of soft materials that have little stiffness of their own.

When blankets have become thin and unsightly from long use have them washed, put two or three together and cover them with pretty sateen to make quilts. Button down quilts here and there mattress fashion to keep them in proper shape and finish off with a nice sateen frill if desired. They are very nice.

Pies and Pie Crust.

A good way to prevent the juice from running out of fruit pie is to insert a funnel shaped piece of paper in the top crust. This will allow the steam to escape while the pie is baking. Many people sprinkle the top of a juicy pie with flour before putting on the top crust. Another good suggestion is to use minute tapioca instead of flour for the purpose.

Lady Curzon's Discovery.

The late Lady Curzon is said to have told some American friends that very early in her married life she discovered that Lord Curzon liked to be "dressed for." So she resolved that he should never come to dinner without finding her in a garb a little different from what other people had seen her in. "It is not much trouble," she said, "and it pleases him."

THERE WAS NO WEDDING

Mr. Kline's Bride-elect Supposed to Have Eloped.

AT THE ELEVENTH HOUR

Prominent Ithaca Girl, Wooed and Won by Williamsporter; a Cornell Man.

HER FAMILY IS PROSTRATED

Daniel Kline, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Kline, of 318 Center street, has returned from Ithaca, N. Y., where he was to have wedded Miss Sadie Marie Frances Noble, a member of a prominent Ithaca family, on Wednesday. The bride-elect at the last moment evidently changed her mind. Indications point to an elopement with David White, a Yale man, son of Mrs. Grace Miller White, a writer, Miss Noble, an accomplished young woman, was wooed and won by Kline when he was a student at Cornell where he graduated a year ago. Her extraordinary conduct naturally has greatly disturbed him, while prostrating the members of her own family.

Miss Noble surely changed her mind at the eleventh hour, for every preparation had been made for the wedding, including the purchase of the trousseau. Mr. Kline, the prospective groom, on Saturday last went to Ithaca and his parents, who had a letter from his fiancee to come several days prior to the wedding were about to start on Wednesday when they received a telegram from their son announcing what had happened.

Concerning the supposed elopement a number of dispatches have been sent out from Ithaca, and most of them were sensational and more or less inaccurate as to details. Daniel Kline made the following statement to the Gazette and Bulletin Wednesday evening:

It is his belief that the action of Miss Noble, who has borne the best of reputation, can be explained in no other manner than that the girl was influenced by Mrs. White, mother of the young man with whom it is supposed the young woman has eloped. It was only a few weeks that Miss Noble had known White.

The Ithaca report that Mr. Kline went to New York declaring he would shoot White is unwarranted. Mr. Kline did not go to New York, but for the sake of Miss Noble's mother he did attempt to get her back home before the elopement could be accomplished. Mr. Kline further said: "Although I had no intention of shooting my rival, I think it is best that we did not meet." White has been described in the dispatches as an athlete, but Kline states that the Yale man is anything but athletic or prepossessing in appearance.

It is unknown whether or not Miss Noble is married, Mr. Kline states, and there has been no evidence that she and White left together. All that is known is that on Monday evening Miss Noble entered the house while Mr. Kline and her mother were talking on the porch. The daughter failed to return and when her mother looked for her it was found that she had gone.

The Wills, the Won'ts and the Can'ts

"There are three kinds of people in the world," said a writer, "the wills, the won'ts and the can'ts. The first accomplish everything, the second oppose everything, the third fail in everything." We are in either of these classes because we will to be. When a firm decisive spirit is recognized, it is curious to see how the space clears around a man and leaves him room and freedom. What could be done with such a man as General Grant, who was determined to fight it out till Lee surrendered at Appomattox? What could be done with such a man as John C. Colhoun, who, while in Yale College, when he was ridiculed for such intense application, exclaimed, "I am forced to make the most of my time that I may acquit myself creditably in Congress." What can be done with any man who eliminates the words "can't" and "impossible" for his vocabulary? What can be done with a man who has burning within his breast the unquenchable fire of an invincible purpose? Nothing but recognize the fact that "The iron will of one stout heart shall make a thousand quail."

Give Him Work to do

Every boy should have something to do every day, something that is peculiarly his own and for which he is personally responsible. And he should be required, or even compelled, to do it well, for the day is coming when he will be required to do things, and if he succeeds he must do this well.

If possible give him work in which he will have rivals. There is nothing that brings a boy out better than rivalry. It stimulates his wit, developes his talents, and makes him resourceful. Of such boys comes our best and greatest men.

Don't do his work for him, nor allow him to shirk it, but do it, and do it right and at the right time. This is the best possible discipline.

Mothers prayers, and their tender nursing is alright, and necessary, too, but fathers' strong hands, and their firm discipline are absolutely essential to the developement of boys who don't know what or how to do, into men who will have great things to do.

Lack of the industrial training of boys is the cause of more failings among men than anything else.

How is it with your boy?

A Square Deal

Is assured you when you buy Dr. Pierce's family medicines—for all the ingredients entering into them are printed on the bottle-wrappers and their formulas are attested under oath as being complete and correct. You know just what you are paying for and that the ingredients are gathered from Nature's laboratory, being selected from the most valuable native medicinal roots found growing in our American forests and while potent to cure are perfectly harmless even to the most delicate women and children. Not a drop of alcohol enters into their composition. A much better agent is used both for extracting and preserving the medicinal principles used in them, viz.—pure triple-refined glycerine. This agent possesses intrinsic medicinal properties of its own, being a most valuable antiseptic and antiferment, nutritive and soothing demulcent.

Glycerine plays an important part in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in the cure of indigestion, dyspepsia and weak stomach, attended by sour risings, heart-burn, foul breath, coated tongue, poor appetite, gnawing feeling in stomach, biliousness and kindred derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels.

Besides curing all the above distressing ailments, the "Golden Medical Discovery" is a specific for all diseases of the mucous membranes, as catarrh, whether of the nasal passages or of the stomach, bowels or pelvic organs. Even in its ulcerative stages it will yield to this sovereign remedy if its use be persevered in. In Chronic Catarrh of the Nasal passages, it is well, while taking the "Golden Medical Discovery" for the necessary constitutional treatment, to cleanse the passages freely two or three times a day with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. This thorough course of treatment generally cures the worst cases.

In coughs and hoarseness caused by bronchial, throat and lung affections, except consumption in its advanced stages, the "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most efficient remedy, especially in those obstinate, hang-on coughs caused by irritation and congestion of the bronchial mucous membranes. The "Discovery" is not so good for acute coughs arising from sudden colds, nor must it be expected to cure consumption in its advanced stages—no medicine will do that—but for all the obstinate, chronic coughs, which, if neglected, or badly treated, lead up to consumption, it is the best medicine that can be taken.

We Say Amen to This

Bellefonte some time ago passed a curfew law which is still operative, but the class which should be reached, together with the youngsters, is the one which is not affected by this ordinance. Let any man or woman in this town go to the Pennsylvania Station when the 8:16 train pulls into Bellefonte any evening, and especially on Saturday evenings, and then say that conditions are such that no action should be taken to improve them. Repeatedly have the newspapers of the town called attention to this fact, that there is entirely too much loafing at the station of young girls and young men who have no earthly use there, who only go there for the purpose of rubbing shoulders with each other, of flirting with drummers or young ladies travelling on the train as the case might be, and then going over the town—goodness knows where.

Many of them do not go straight home directly from the station, and where they are in the meantime, to say the least, is where they have no right to be. Girls from 14 to 20, or a few years older, are seen on our streets at late hours, night after night. What do they do? what do they want? Is it necessary that they be out every evening? These are only some of the questions which should be answerd by someone. As a community we cannot but be cognizant of these facts, but we are seemingly contented to let them take care of themselves. Perhaps so, as a community, but as individuals do we want to see our boys and girls drifting off to lives of crime, evil and disgrace? There have been too many examples of this kind of life shown in Bellefonte for us to remain placid and see our young men and women coming to shame. Now is the time to stop all this. If the Pennsylvania Railroad Company does not enforce their decrees, let the town Council enforce the rule of no loafing at the stations or on the streets. There is a cure for all evils. Let the cure for this one be applied at once.

We do not intend to say what is the best method of obviating this condition of social affairs. We do know that it exists. The whole community does, or should know the same, and those in authority should see to it that it does not continue. Much can be done, and the christian people of Bellefonte should demand that better conditions exist than is now the case.—Gazette.

Funny, Isn't it.

When a man tells us a funny joke we are supposed to laugh as a sign of appreciation, even if the joke is old, and bores instead of amusing us. Laughter is for company. The more people there are together the more each one of them will laugh. It is a way we have of appearing to be pleased with our companions. When but two persons are together they do not laugh so much, and one who is alone does not at all unless he forgets for the instant that he is alone. A laughing hermit would be regarded as a maniac.

Woman's World

MISS GLADYS BRYANT SMITH

One of the Many Pretty Girls Who Have Christened Warships.

There is to be a new society of women—at least such a society is in contemplation—the members of which are to be women and young girls who have stood sponsor for some war vessel that the United States government places in its navy. Miss Gladys Bryant Smith, who stood sponsor for the St. Louis, is eligible to membership in this society, and Miss Cockeril, now Mrs. Gallaudet, who stood sponsor for the Missouri. It is to be called the Society of the Sponsors of the United States

MISS GLADYS BRYANT SMITH.

Navy. Miss Elsie MacComber, who christened the Des Moines; Miss Anna Hoch, sponsor for the Kansas; Miss Mary Campbell of Birmingham, who christened a cruiser named after her city, and Miss Bell, sponsor for the Vermont, are among those ellgible. The youngest member of the proposed society will be little Miss Webster of Brookline, Mass., aged twelve, who christened the submarine sea fighter Octopus. This society will include in its membership many of the prettiest and most prominent women and girls in the country who have had the honor of christening Uncle Sam's warships.

The New Cure.

The peace cure appears to be fast superseding the once popular rest cure as a panacea for all the ills of mankind, or, rather, womankind, to be more precise. This new cure is mainly a matter of mental discipline and to take it one need not go into exile or even drop one's worldly affairs. In this novel course of personal treatment there is much excellent common sense in some of the rules.

Taking the peace cure begins with your meals. You must eat slowly and think pleasant thoughts. You will not need a great deal of food, for the food you eat nourishes you. You sit down at the table, eat slowly, relax your muscles, clear your mind, think only of your food and grow peaceful in contemplation.

The woman who takes the peace cure begins with nerve relaxation.

She forces her lips to smile.

She orders her hands to lie still in her lap.

She tilts back her head until the center of gravity is reached and the head supports itself naturally upon the muscles of the neck.

She places both feet upon the floor and keeps them there.

She rests her back against something, so that she is comfortable.

Then she thinks pleasant thoughts.

The peace curists believe that the first hour of the day is the most important hour of the twenty-four. "Your thoughts for the coming day, your temper, your serenity, your very health itself, depend upon your waking thoughts," is what they teach, and they add that very few persons have any idea of the extent to which the day is governed by the waking thoughts. Your waking thoughts control your day.

Don'ts For Hostess.

Don't invite more guests than you can seat comfortably at your table. A space of two feet should be allowed for each person.

Don't send your plate away or appear to have done eating till your guests have all finished.

Don't discuss politics or religious matters unless you know your guests are all in sympathy with you.

Don't notice if your guests drink water. They may or may not be teetotalers from principle, but in any case they drink what they like and prefer to do so without attracting attention.

Don't press your guests to take more or to partake of any special kind of food. They know they are welcome to all they want, and such pressing is embarrassing.

Don't betray anxiety if the servants are awkward or not quite up to their work and, above all, don't correct them. Their error will probably escape notice, but the correction would attract the attention of your guests. When any little contretemps occurs don't appear aware of it, but by chatting on composedly divert people's attention from it.

Men Like Weeping Women.

"If there were more tears there would be more marriages," said a matchmaker. "Whatever men may say, they like a woman who has not lost the ability to weep in true feminine fashion. In spite of their alleged strength men always want some one in whom they can confide. What sympathy can they expect from a woman who knows not how to weep and regards tears as undignified? No man really likes to see a woman cry, but all men prefer a woman who can and does cry—a tender hearted creature who, although brave enough, does not try to incase herself in a kind of additional outer skin or suit of mail that renders her proof against sentiment. It is very questionable if this stoicism is good for women in any way. It is a relief to shed tears, and many a man would be glad if it were not regarded as cowardice for him to weep."

Serving Fruit.

Fruit may be served on a large, round, flat dish or in a fruit bowl or fruit dish. It is very pretty to use the natural leaves, if they can be procured, for garnishing the dish. The fruit should be passed and each person be given a fruit plate and fruit knife and finger bowl. The finger bowl is placed on the fruit plate and should be lifted and set to one's left before helping oneself to fruit. A nice way to eat an orange is to cut it in halves and eat with a spoon. Plums, peaches and pears are eaten from the fingers. Bananas are eaten from the skin. Pineapple is usually pared, the eyes taken out, the flesh picked apart with a silver fork, placed in a fruit dish and sugared and then served in a dessert plate and eaten with a spoon or a fork.

Not Always Smiling.

Men should remember that women can't always be smiling who have to cook the dinner, answer the bell half a dozen times and get rid of a neighbor who has just dropped in, tend to a sick baby, tie up the cut finger of a two-year-old, gather up the playthings of a four-year-old, tie up the head of a six-year-old on skates and get an eight-year-old ready for school, to say nothing of sweeping, cleaning, etc., says a woman writer in an exchange. A woman with all these to contend with may claim it a privilege to look and feel a little tired sometimes, and a word of sympathy would not be too much to expect from the man who during the honeymoon wouldn't let her carry as much as a sunshade.

Not a Stranger to Her.

The conductor of the Pullman car had for some time had his eye on the man who seemed to be fishing for an excuse to speak to the lady across the aisle. The passenger finally left his seat and took one beside her, and when they had conversed for a few minutes the lady seemed to be protesting, and the conductor's opportunity had come. He stepped forward and said:

"Madam, if this man is forcing his attentions upon you he must resume his own seat."

"He is not exactly a stranger to me," she admitted.

"But you seemed to be annoyed, madam."

"I am not exactly annoyed, but I wish he wouldn't talk to me."

"I am simply arguing a case," explained the man.

"Yes, but there is nothing to argue. We have been married and divorced twice, and now I've married another man, and we can't be married again until he dies. Give it up, Jimmy—give it up and go back to your seat."—Chicago News.

A Strong Boy.

Some weeks ago in a village a few miles from the City of Mexico a citizen went to the alcalde and complained that a boy ten years old had stolen and carried away his donkey. He insisted that the boy had carried the animal on his shoulders. The police laughed at the idea, but when the lad was arrested it was shown that the statement was true.

The boy had carried a good sized donkey a quarter of a mile on his shoulders without a stop. He did the trick again for the benefit of the police.

Various tests were made of his strength, and it was found that he had the muscles of two ordinary men.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific Nerve sickness—nothing else.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that success and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Without that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had.

For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and sallow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend RIVER OF SALT WATER.

Curious Stream That Runs Inland In Grecian Island.

One of the most curious phenomena of geography is found on the southern coast of the island of Cephalonia, in Greece. It is a stream of salt water which for an unknown period has left the almost tideless sea and flowed inland with a volume sufficient to furnish water power to two mills. For some generations the mills were operated by undershot wheels which took their power from this little river of ocean water. They supplied flour to the people of the island until recently, but now they have been dismantled owing to the competition of larger and better equipped mills.

The sea enters the land at four points where the coast is practically on a level with the salt water surface. The four initial streams unite to form the little river that flows inland in a broken rocky channel until it finally disappears in the limestone rock and sinks into the earth.

This inland flow has continued almost certainly for several centuries. It is far too great for removal by evaporation, chemical combination or even physical absorption by pores or caverns in the rocks. What becomes of the water that is constantly flowing inland and disappears finally in the fissures that have opened in the limestone?

The question has been the subject of much study, but no conclusive answer has been given. It is probable that there is an underground channel which carries the water back into the sea at no great depth below the surface. The constant influx of salt water at Cephalonia is duplicated, as far as is known, at no other point of the world.

Chubb and His Tub.

To little John Adolphus Chubb
Your kind attention I invite.
Oh, how he loves to bathe and scrub
Each morn and eke at night!

Now, John Adolphus William Chubb,
A fine young elephant is he,
And when he's in his little tub
Oh, 'tis a pleasant sight to see.

His nurse, a motherly old thing,
No need to coax the rogue has she.
Adolphus, when he sees her bring
The water, trumpets in his glee.

Oh, how he loves the cold, cold stream
Descending on him in the tub!
He feels as if he'd like to scream;
He loves it so, does William Chubb.

And then, the evening's washing o'er
(Though he could wish it lasted still),
His nurse will say: "Come, come, no more.
You've had enough now, Master Will."

So swift he's dried, his nightgown on,
A nightcap tied upon his head,
And to the rattle's music John
Adolphus William goes to bed.

Acorn Lawn Party.

This amusement is very enjoyable to young children. Gay colored bags of muslin are given to each child—red and green for the girls, blue and yellow for the boys. Inclose a large enough portion of lawn or grounds with long strips of cambric, the same color as the bags, knotted together and tied from tree to tree. Gilded acorns, hidden from sight as far as possible, are scattered over the ground thus inclosed. At a signal the children who have been placed outside the ropes dive under the strips of cambric and begin the search for the gold acorns. At the end of a specified time the children are called from the hunt and an inexpensive prize awarded to the one who has secured the greatest number of acorns. Have a consolation prize for the one who brings in an empty bag. Cake and lemonade served out of doors add to the enjoyment of the children.

Careful Boy.

Two American tourists on their way to Abbotsford were in doubt about the road to take and the time it would occupy to get there. Hailing a lad who happened to be passing, they put the necessary questions. The native replied by showing the route, but did not know how long it would take to get there. The tourists resumed their journey, but had scarcely gone a hundred yards when a shout from the boy made them turn.

"It will take you an hour," called the boy at the pitch of his voice.

"Then why the deuce didn't you tell us that before?" returned one of the Americans.

"I couldna tell ye afore I knew hoo fast ye could walk."—Dundee Advertiser.

LINEMAN FALLS 40 FEET.

After Coming in Contact with a Live Wire and Being Burned.

H. Packer Troxell, a well known lineman of Williamsport, who is foreman of the Pennsylvania Telephone, and who is well known in Bellefonte had a mighty close call from death in front of the Hospital Nurses' home on Louisa street, about 6 o'clock Thursday evening says the Gazette and Bulletin. Mr. Troxell received a shock while on a pole 40 feet from the ground, and was precipitated to the street, making a remarkable escape from a tragic fate.

In pushing his way through the labyrinth of wires, Mr. Troxell evidently came in contact with a Lycoming electric wire loaded with an alternating current shock. He fell to the ground, a distance of 40 feet, rolling up like a ball in his descent.

The resident physicians at the Williamsport hospital, who were near at hand, acted quickly and to their prompt work Mr. Troxell probably owes his life. Mr. Troxell was unconscious and was breathing, and the physicians, who hurried to his side, at once resorted to artificial means to restore respiration. They pulled out his tongue with a pair of pliers and in a short time were rewarded by signs of returning life.

He was taken into the hospital where it was found that he had not broken a bone. There was a cut on his head, however, and it thought that he landed on head and shoulders. He fortunately dropped into some soft mud which helped break the fall to some extent, but it was nevertheless remarkable that he did not fracture a bone.

The right leg, where it came in contact with the wire, was very badly burned below the knee clear into the bone, and the right arm was burned, but aside from these injuries he was not hort to any extent.

Mr. Troxell's condition at a late hour Thursday night was considered satisfactory by the hospital physicians.

Has Seen 22 Hanged.

A Lancaster dispatch says: Sheriff Zeigler has received a letter from Peter A. Johns, of Uniontown, a Republican candidate for sheriff, asking for a pass to see the four Italians hanged on October 3rd. Mr. Johns says he has seen twenty-two persons hanged and helped to hang eleven of them. He has seen three double hangings and one triple hanging and now desires to see the hanging of four persons at one time.

It has been decided by the sheriff that the men will be hanged two at a time. He is daily in receipt of applications for passes as well as letters commending him for his decision to have a private execution. Sheriff Zeigler will stick to his decision and issue no passes.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Foley's Honey and Tar affords immediate relief to asthma sufferers in the worst stages and if taenk in time effect a cure. Sold by C. M. Parrish.

Occasional headache, belching, bad taste in the mouth, lack of appetite and slight nervousness are symptoms of indigestion which when allowed to go uncared for, will develop into a case of dyspepsia that will take a long time to get rid of. Don't neglect your stomach. At the first indication of trouble take something that will help it along in its work of digesting the food you eat. Kodol For Indigesting and Dyspepsia will do this. Kodol will make your food do you good and will enable you to enjoy what you eat. Sold by Green's Pharmacy.

—Impure blood runs you down—makes you an easy victim for organic diseases. Burdock Blood Bitters purifies the blood—cures the cause—builds you up.

There are a great many people who have slight attacks of indigestion and dyspepsia nearly all the time. Their food may satisfy the appetite but it fails to nurish the body simply because the stomach is not in fit condition to do the work it is supposed to do. It can't digest the food you eat. The stomach should be given help. You ought take something that will do the work your stomach can't do. Kodol For Indigestion and Dyspepsia, a combination of natural digestants and vegetable acids, digests the food itself and gives strength and health to the stomach. Pleasant to take. Sold by Green's Pharmacy.

STRONG Again

is what Mrs. Lucy Stovall, of Tilton, Ga., said after taking Kodol for Dyspepsia. Hundreds of other weak women are being restored to perfect health by this remedy. YOU may be well if you will take it.

Indigestion causes nearly all the sickness that women have. It deprives the system of nourishment and the delicate organs peculiar to women suffer—weaken, and become diseased.

Kodol
For Dyspepsia

enables the stomach and digestive organs to digest and assimilate all of the wholesome food that may be eaten. It nourishes the body, and rebuilds the weak organs, restoring health and strength. Kodol relieves indigestion, constipation, dyspepsia, sour risings, belching, heartburn and all stomach disorders.

Digests What You Eat

Relieves Indigestion, sour stomach, belching, etc. Prepared at the Laboratory of E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago, U.S.A.

AGED FLEMINGTON RESIDENT KILLED.

Was Sitting on Ties Near Railroad Bridge.

William Schade, an aged resident of Flemington, was almost instantly killed near the Bald Eagle railroad bridge, on the B. E. V. road on Sunday, by being struck by the passenger train which arrives at Lock Haven at 10:30 in the forenoon.

The aged gentleman lived with George Dauberman, in Flemington borough, and Sunday forenoon at 9 o'clock, started to go to the home of his grand-daughter, Mrs. John Berry, at "Draketown," near the brick works, between Flemington and Mill Hall. At a point 10 feet this side of the bridge he sat down on the ends of the ties, probably to rest and may have been dozing. Engineer George J. Gibbs saw the man and whistled, not being able to stop the train. On hearing the screech of the locomotives whistle Mr. Schade raised himself off the ties, and cleared the front of the engine, but fell back against the driving rod, and was hurled to one side. The train was stopped and the limp form was placed in the baggage car and taken to the P. and E. station in that city. There were evidences of life when the injured man was placed on the train, but he was dead when taken off. There were no bruises or marks on his face or head, and Undertaker Waters who prepared the body for burial found that there were no bruises on the body. It is probable that he was injured internally.

Coroner John Bailey being out of the city, Alderman John P. Anthony acted as coroner, and after hearing the sworn testimony of Engineer Gibbs concluded that an inquest was unnecessary.

The deceased was aged 84 years and earlier in life followed farming as an occupation. He leaves two sons, W. H. Schade, who resides on Peach street, Lock Haven and James Schade of Lusk Run, and one brother, Absolem Schade, of Keating.

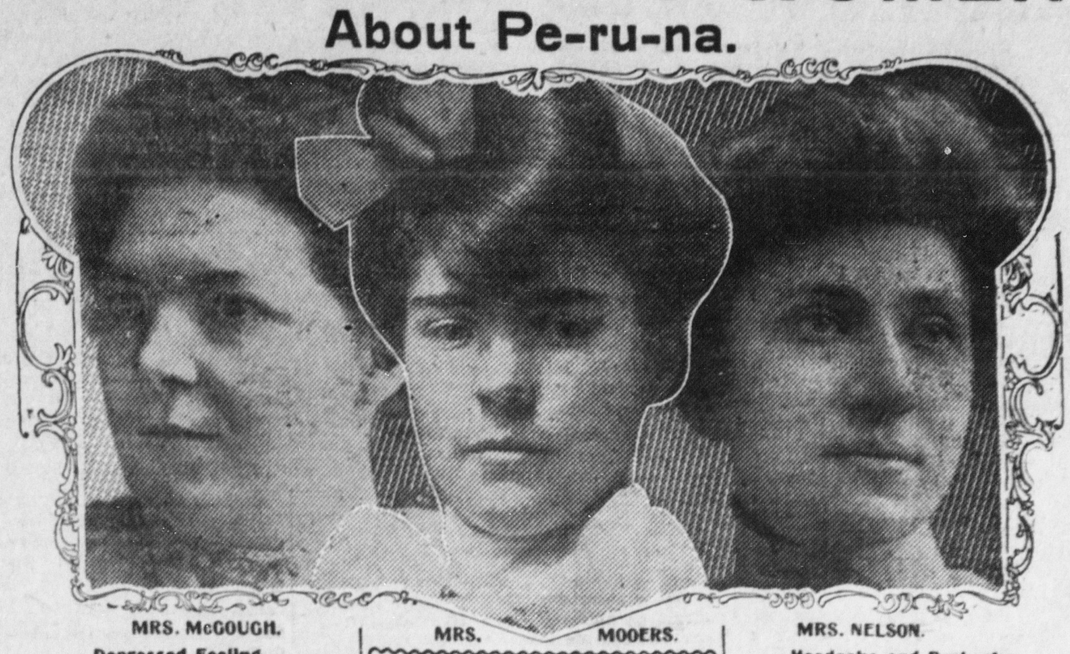
—Early last Spring Adam Shreyer the night watchman at the P. R. R. station found two large seed potatoes in an empty box car. He took them home and soon had them under the ground. On Monday he dug them up and from the two potatoes planted he received a bushel in return. Mr. Schreyer is certainly pleased with the result and will keep them all for seed

—The management of the "Theatorium" has received a magnificent new Powell moving picture machine and installed the same at the Theatorium today. The Powell is considered one of the best machines on the market and has always given perfect satisfaction. We can guarantee that the pictures shown at this place of amusement will be the best ever produced in Bellefonte.

—A strange disease puzzling various veterinaries has attacked the cattle in the vicinity of Salladasburg. Several fine cows belonging to J. and M. Eckert of Mifflin township have recently shown signs of a disease which has been traced to the appearance of a bug somewhat larger than the ordinary grape bug. These bugs seem to suck the vitality from the animal. Two fine cows have already died and several of Mr. Eckert's drove are showing signs of the plague. Veterinary Sweely has pronounced the disease as Texas fever.

WOMEN TALK TO WOMEN

About Pe-ru-na.



MRS. McGOUGH.

Depressed Feeling.

Mrs. M. McGough, 219 W. 53rd street, New York, N. Y., writes:

"I gladly add my mite of praise to Peruna for what it has done for me. Two years ago a depressed feeling took hold of me. My back and sides ached continually. My stomach got out of order so that at times I could not hold a glass of cold water. I didn't like to eat, afraid that my stomach would get sick. I have been using Peruna for the three past months and now I feel as well as I ever did. My stomach is as strong as ever and my nervous troubles have disappeared. I keep recommending Peruna to my friends who are troubled as I was, and I have been thanked for doing so."

MRS. MOOERS.

Mrs. Wilda Mooers, R. F. D. 1, Lents, Ore., member Order of Washington, writes:

"For the past four years I was a wretched woman suffering with troubles peculiar to my sex, causing severe backache and bearing down pains and leaving me so weak and weary that it was only with difficulty that I was able to attend to my household duties. I used different remedies and injections, but found no relief until I had tried Peruna. Within two weeks there was a complete change for the better and in less than three months I was a well and happy woman and all the praise is due to Peruna."

MRS. NELSON.

Headache and Backache.

Mrs. Tressie Nelson, 609 N. 5th Ave., Nashville, Tenn., writes:

"As Peruna has done me a world of good, I feel in duty bound to tell of it, in hopes that it may meet the eye of some woman who has suffered as I did. For five years I really did not know what a perfectly well day was, and if I did not have headache, I had backache or a pain somewhere and really life was not worth the effort I made to keep going.

"A good friend advised me to use Peruna and I was glad to try anything, and I am very pleased to say that six bottles made a new woman of me and I have no more pains and life looks bright again."

The above testimonials represent actual experience of every-day life. They are the truthful utterances of women who have been ill and have found a reliable remedy in Peruna.

It means a great deal to the women of America who have at hand a remedy capable of performing such cures. Nervousness, backache, dyspepsia, headache, melancholy, bearing down pains. All these and a host of other symptoms are relieved by Peruna. At least this is what the women say. They have no object in saying such things, except to render truthful testimony to their suffering sisters.

The reader will note by reading these testimonials that in most cases other remedies were tried, doctors were consulted, and finally Peruna came to their rescue and made them well again.

Peruna is making such cures every day. It is the testimony of the people that has made Peruna so justly famous Suffered Thirteen Years.

Mrs. Anna Munden, Hollygrove, Ark., writes:

"I suffered with female troubles for thirteen years.

"I saw an advertisement of your Peruna and bought one bottle and before I had taken it all I could get out of bed and walk about.

"After taking three bottles I was as well and hearty as ever and gained in flesh. I would not be without it."

Headache and Deafness.

Mrs. Mary E. Sampson, Londonderry, N. H., writes:

"I had terrible headaches, both ears run and I was nervous all the time, was deaf in one ear for thirty years. I took six bottles of Peruna and one of Manalin, and am happy to say that it is the best medicine that I ever heard of. I am not so nervous, my appetite is good, everything I eat agrees with me, and I am feeling better in every way."

A Severe Cold.

Miss Marie Calvin, 927 Main street, Cincinnati, Ohio, writes:

"I caught a cold coming home from an evening party and as I did not pay particular attention to it, I quickly became worse and found myself in a serious condition.

"I took Peruna and it brought me immediate relief. Within a week I was cured and now whenever I feel badly Peruna will set things right."

—The little 3 year old son of Mrs. Myrtle Irvin who lives on Willowbank street almost choked to death on Tuesday evening. The little fellow has the whooping cough and just as he was going to swallow a piece of meat he started to cough. The result was the meat almost strangled the lad. He worked in convulsions and if it had not been for the timely assistence of some of the neighbors no doubt but what the boy would have died.

—H. Walton Mitchell, Esq., of Pittsburg; H. V. White, Esq., of Bloomsburg; W. F. Hill, of Chambersburg; Col. John A. Woodward, of Howard; Hon. Ellis L. Orvis, of Bellefonte; Gen. James A. Beaver, of Bellefonte; Dr. J. P. Welsh of State College. Members of the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees of the State College met Friday night at Bellefonte instead of State College. Regular monthly meeting of the Committee.

—Next Monday night the Council meets again. We want to draw the Street committees attention to several bad pavements on the North side of High street. These sidewalks should be repaired before winter sets in and we want to remind the Street committee that a request has been made for an incondescent lamp at the alley near Valentine's stable on Spring street. This is a dark hole and very dangerous.

—Burkhart who broke out of the Lock Haven jail last week was caught again. On Tuesday forenoon Sheriff Mussina received word from Lieutenant Charles E. Sheasley, 117 Company Coast Artillery Corps Fort Adams R. I. in which he says that Anthony Burk is a deserter from Fort Allen having left there on August 9. Burkhart is held in Clinton county with a half dozen charges hanging over him. It is not known what District Attorney Hipple will do with the case.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

A conference of committee chairman will be held Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock,

The boy's rooms will be opened on the 20th with a sociable,

Plans are being made for the reorganization of the Bible class work and it is hoped that our new Physical Director will be with us next week to start the gymnasium work.

An excellent season in all departments is assured.

Centre County Christian Endeavor Convention.

At Howard in the Evangelical Church Sept. 4-5, a large company of Christian Endeavorers met for the purpose of holding their annual County meeting. Much preparation was made for the success of this meeting and every delegate and visitor seemed to be thoroughly awake to their responsibility, and anxious to help at some part of the work.

Taking it as a whole the meeting was a thorough success in every way. The addresses were instructive and entertaining, and were along the different lines of C. E. work, mission work, rescue work, prayer meeting work, quiet hour work, junior work and so on. Mr. C. E. Mercer from McAlley Mission, New York City, and Rev. Prof. Sanders, were added to the list of our home workers, and all did excellent service. Thirty-eight members of the Quiet Hour were enrolled conferences were held on the different lines of work and much valuable instruction was given out.

Beautiful celluloid badges were provided for the Convention which served as souveniers for the occasion.

The banner societies were the Centre Line Lutheran for the largest delegation and the Buffalo Run Presbyterian for the largest delegation in proportion to membership, these societies were delighted to carry away their banners. The attendance at most all the different sessions was very good and the contributions were large.

The retiring president Frank P. Fisher did excellent work, and we regret very much that he could not continue in the position.

The newly elected officers are, Mr. Harry Fisher, Pres.; Mr. Williams of Blanchard, Rec. Sec.; Mr. Solt and Rev. Gress, vice-pres.; Nannie Fisher, Cor. Sec'y and Mr. Harry Ebbs, Treas.

The good people of Howard entertained the people very cordially and welcomed all most heartily, and made us to feel that we would like to go again. May God bless them all for their kindness to us.

"Dutch" the Dancing Master.

The best dancing masters we have today are the German and Dutch and so Bellefonte is to have the "Dutch" to teach the latest two steps, waltzes and quadrills. In a short time, say two or three weeks Dutch Otto will start a dancing class exclusively for young men. He has rented the Logan Hose ball room and there he will teach the Bellefonte boys how to do the elegant. We don't know any thing about Dutch's ability as a teacher, but they say he is all to the mustard.

CORRESPONDENCE

All correspondents must be in this office not later than Tuesday evening. And local matter must be written only on one side of the paper. Correspondents will kindly notice these requests.

Moshannon.

H. L. Borger is improving his residence with a new front porch, which is a decided improvement.

The schools here opened on Monday with a large attendance and a bright outlook for a happy and prosperous term. The teachers are Harry Hoover, of Pine Glen, and Laura Williams of Moshannon:

The mines at this place have resumed opperations and the prospects are very favorable for a continued prosperity in that direction.

Mike Kerin who has been working at Viaduct, has accepted the position as freight agent at the N. Y. C. depot here and will fill the vacancy left by our mutual friend Arch Williams who has gone to Hooverhurst, Indiana Co., to work.

Mrs. Bestiman lost a valuable young cow recently. The cause of the death of the animal was not learned.

Albert Lucus and sister Jennie departed Saturday for the vicinity of Altoona where they will teach this coming winter.

J. E. Gearheart of Clearfield, will preach in the Methodist Church at this place on Sunday, September 15th at 11 o'clock a. m.

Miss Eva McGowan returned home from Clearfield recently where she visited friends and relatives for several days.

L. C. Bullock of Milesburg installed one of his Ascetylede Gas plants in the General Store of J. T. Lucas, during the past week which surely is a marked improvement in the way of lighting. We hope the day is not far distant when more of our residents will make advances in the same direction.

Centre Hall

The Grange Park is about ready for the business of the picnic. For the past two weeks Mr. Rhone has had a force of workmen employed putting up the tents, cleaning up the grounds and getting the buildings ready for those who will do business in them.

The Ladies of the Ladies Foreign Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church celebrated their twenty-sixth anniversary of the organization on last Sabbath evening in the Centre Hall church. The program was a very interesting one and every one performed her part very well. From the secretary's report we learn that the society during the twenty-six years of its existance contributed over one thousand dollars to the cause of foreign missions.

E. M. Huyett our lumber king, is building another tenant house on his farm.

Our druggist, Jared Murray, is building an addition to the furniture building occupied by G. L. Resrick.

Mrs. Dinges is moving to Williamsport where her son Simon is engaged in the insurance business.

G. W. Dunkle and wife left on last Monday morning for Elmira, N. Y., where they will make their home with their daughter Mrs. Florence Hess. Mrs. Hess who has been here for several weeks assisting them in preparing for their sale and moving accompanied them.

UNIONVILLE ALMOST SHUT OUT.

The Bellefonte Boys Won by a Score of 8 to 1

On Thursday the strong Unionville base ball team that has been swiping every thing along the "pike" arrived in Bellefonte on the 1:23 train and on their way out to Meadow Brook Park, were braging what they would do to the town boys and that when they got through with them they would be so badly beaten that they would be ashamed to come back to Bellefonte.

Our boys didn't say anything and really expected to be beaten, but they would take their defeat bravely and do all in their power to hold the score down.

The game started at ten minutes of three and at five minutes after four when the game ended, our fellows had defeated the Unionites to a score of 8 to 1 and could have rolled up a dozen more runs if they would of played the last half. When the game was scheduled the manager of the Unionville team made our fellows promise to have a new ball as they were getting tired carrying home old balls. Don't think the one they took from our boys made them very tired carrying.

It was one of the best short, snappy games ever played at the meadow, and had it not been for one little error one of our fellows made, the other team would have been snowed under.

We don't like to complain about the umpire but we do think he gave us some rank decisions. It may not have been done intentionally on the part of the gentleman but nevertheless our boys noticed them. The feature of the game was Earl Kline's pitching, he certainly was at himself on Thursday, it was one, two, three, the whole way through the game, and every time a Unionville fellow stepped to the plate he expected to be struck out. They were certainly easy for Kline and it didn't seem like such an effort for him to do his work. Johnson and Thomas of Milesburg are both credited with a run and did some fine playing with our team. Jodon of the same place landed some beautiful fly's out in centre field. Keeler behind the bat was never known to let one go by him, he was like a stone ball. Gengher, Mosebarger, Mills and Taylor all have runs credited to them and played the game to perfection. Every man supported one another and for a fact we never saw better work than what our fellows did on Thursday.

Chicken and Waffle Supper.

On Thursday evening the Ladies Aid Society of the United Brethren Church will give one of their old style chicken and waffle suppers in the Lecture room of the church. When these ladies serve a supper, it is a supper and don't you think you won't get enough to eat, because they INSIST on you having more and all you want. The cost will be twenty-five cents, chesaper than eating at home. On Thursday evening beginning at 5 o'clock at the United Brethren Church. Price 25 cents.

Big Improvements at the Brockerhoff House.

Workmen began Thursday making improvemonts which will mean a partial remodeling of the Brockerhoff house and which, when completed will make it as up-to-date as any hotel in Central Pennsylvania. The small room to the left of the main entrance, in which a handsome tile floor has just been laid, has been taken by landlord Ray and will be used as a writing room, though a smal portion in the rear will be cut off by a wainscoting partition for a private office for the landlord. These rooms will both be furnished with the most comfortable and up-to-date furniture.

The present writing room at the head of the stairs will be converted into a parlor while the present parlor will be furnished as a large bed chamber, and which can also be used as a sample room. Room 39, the big room at the left of the stairs will be made into two rooms with bath attached to each. In fact the two bath rooms will be so conveniently located that they can be connected with either rooms 38, 39, 40 or 27, or the four rooms can be used as a suite with two private baths. Naturally these will make very desirable rooms, being located on the first floor and all in front, so that when the improvements are completed the New Brockerhoff will be newer than ever.

A Bashful Young Man.

A Milesburg young man called on a young lady in the North Ward recently to spend the evening and when he got ready to leave he realized that a heavy rain was falling. He had no umbrella or rubber coat and when the girl's father asked him to remain at the house he readily consented. The next morning when he was invited to a seat at the table he very reluctantly accepted. He was very nervous and agitated. He sat opposite a mirror and discovered that he had forgotten to comb his hair. Then he dropped his fork on the floor and as he stooped to pick it up he upset his coffee. Matters went from bad to worse until finally in despair the young man quit eating and put his hands under the table. The loose end of the table cloth was lying in his lap and when he touched it he turned pale. He thought it was his shirt and that in his nervous excitement when dressing he had forgot to put the garment inside his trousers. That accounted for the smiles and embarrassment. There was no time to lose. He hurriedly stuffed the supposed shirt into his trousers. Ten minutes later when the family arose from the table there was a crash. The dishes lay in a broken mass upon the floor. The young man pulled three feet of table cloth out of his pants and fled through the back door. He is yet in the woods back of his home.

Almost a Tragedy Tuesday Evening.

William Royer, Norman Meyers, Thomas Murphy and Joe Pressler went to Hecla Park Tuesday evening intending to pick some elderberries, after filling their baskets near the McMullen farm, Joseph Pressler went into McMullen's orchard climbed an "Old Apple Tree" and was filling his baskets with delicious apples. About that time Mr. McMullen appeared on the scene thinking the parties were stealing, and discharged a load o shot in the direction of the "Old Apple Tree," Joe dropped to the ground, he was not struck by any of the shot, the only injury he received was a bad rip in his overalls. A person would think a man as old as Joe would know that elderberries don't grow on apple trees.

New Burial Grounds.

The attention of the Bellefonte Humane Society is directed to the number of bull dogs that are allowed to run at large in Bellefonte, watching their opportunity to follow up their natural instinct to chew up other innocent and peaceable dogs which have other merits than an inclination to fight.

It has become quite elite of late in this town to own a lantern-jawed, bow-legged vicious bull dog, and wherein the compliment lies to own one of these brutes is a matter we cannot understand. There is an excuse for a family to harbor a pet dog, a watch dog, a hunting dog, or any other animal that has any respect for the rights of others of his kind, but we have very little respect for any person who bestows his affections upon an animal whose nature is to tear up, torture and abuse harmless animals.

We do not know what others will do, but one of these days, when another of those horrible affairs occur as did Sunday morning, there will be three quick, sharp reports from a shot gun and then the High Constable of Bellefonte will cart a load of bull dogs to the commons for interment.—Sporting Editor of the Gazette.

Miss Marvin in Town.

Miss Grace Marvin who won so much popolarity in Bellefonte last season in Joseph Brothers & Co.'s Millenery department arrived in town today from New York City where she has been spening the summer and brings with her the latest models in ladies head wear. Most of her beautiful designs sold last season to the best people in Bellefonte were original and no doubt she will produce something stunning for the coming season. Miss Marvin is acknowledged to be the best trimer ever brought to Bellesonte from New York. We are pleased to see her back with Joseph Brothers & Co. and we know they cannot help but be benefited in having her here. She has a corps of young ladies busy all the time getting ready for the big trade this coming season.

Schools as an Investment

It is not easy for taxpayers to realize that the money put into the education of the common people comes back in increased taxpaying within fifteen years and continues a permanent income. A child who gets little out of the public schools will pay little or no tax through life, and will be liable to make a personal draft on the taxpayers as a pauper, criminal or weakling.

The more a child gets out of the public schools the more tax will he pay and less liability is there that he will be a burden on the taxpayers. When all exceptions are eliminated, the fact stands that the taxpaying of the ordinary man is largely in proportion, directly and indirectly, to what is given him in the elementary school and to what he gets out of it.—Boston Herald.

Well Known Fireman Weds.

William Moltz of this city, foreman of Good Will Hose company, and Miss Jennie B. Ertel of Howard, who has been living at the Eagle hotel, were quietly married on Monday afternoon at the home of Rev. H. W. Laye, in Lockport. The couple will reside with the groom's mother, on East Bald Eagle street. Mr. Moltz has accepted a position with the Gleasonton Fire Brick works, and left for that place this morning. He will return Saturday next when his many friends will give him and his estimable bride a proper send-off.—Lock Haven Democrat.

The Watchword of Women.

Modesty is woman's watchword. What ever threatens her delicate sense of modesty, frightens her. For this reason many a woman permits diseases of the delicate womanly organs to become aggravated because she cannot bring herself to submit to the ordeal of unpleasant questionings, offensive examinations, and obnoxious local treatments, which some physicians find necessary. Doubtless thousand of the women who have taken advantage of Dr. Pierce's offer of free coesultation by letter, have been led to do so by the escape thus offered from treatment repugnant to modesty. Any sick woman may write to Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., in perfect confidence; all letters being treated as strictly private sacredly confidential, and all answers being sent in plain envelopes with no advertising or other printing upon them. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has been long hailed as a "God-send to women." It makes weak women strong and sick women well. "Favorite Prescription" contains no alcohol. All its ingredients printed on ever bottle-wrapper.

At the Rifle Range

The members of Company B. are busy these days at the Rifle Range at Milesburg. Most all of the boys have shot and qualified, that means that they will wear the little bronze bar. The Range is now in charge of Sergeant Toner Hugg and Reuben Grafmeyer. Some members have not as yet shot and Captain Garbrick is very desirous of having every man get through. The Range will remain open this week and all who have not been down to shoot should make a speciel effort to do so, as it is an expense to keep the range open so long. We published a list of a number who shot at the beginning of the season and since then the following members have qualified.

COURT PROCLAMATION—Whereas the Honorable Ellis L. Orvis, President Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the 49th Judicial District, consisting of the county of Centre, having issued his precept, bearing date the 26th, day of July, 1907, to me directed for holding a Court of Common Pleas, Orphans' Court, Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace, Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery, in Bellefonte, for the County of Centre and to commence on the being the 23rd day of september 1907, and to continue two weeks. Notice is hereby given to the coroner, Justice of the peace, aldermen and constables of said County of Centre, that they be then and there in their proper persons, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of the 23rd, with their records, inquisitions, examinations, and their own remembrances to do those things which to their office appertains to be done, and those who are bound in recognizances to prosecute against the prisoners that are or shall be in the jail of Centre county be then and there to prosecute against them as shall be just.

Given under my hand, at Bellefonte, the 27th day of August 1907, in the year of our Lord 1907 and the one hundred and thirtyfive year of the independence of the United States. HENRY KLINE, Sheriff.

Jim's Honeymoon.

By CARTER HAVEN.

Copyrighted, 1907, by Homer Sprague.

"I never saw a circus," pouted Drucilla.

"It ain't done ye no harm so fur as I c'n see," commented her father critically. "I guess you're likely to get your full growth without seein' one."

"I've got the egg money," put in Mrs. Chesney. "I can let her have some of that, Si."

"I'm goin' t' need that for the mortgage," he explained.

Mrs. Chesney sighed. Some of the women she knew really kept the egg money. There was a fiction to the effect that she did also, but Silas usually found some excuse for borrowing the money before the sum grew large, and Martha Chesney meekly submitted to his demands. She did want Drucie to see a circus, though. Half a dollar would not be much.

"I'll take her."

Silas wheeled angrily to confront the last speaker. It was all very well that Jim Peters, his hired man, should worship Drucilla. Silas paid Jim $4 a month less than the prevailing wage on that very account. To pay her open court was another and very different matter. Silas had decided that Drucie was to marry Hank Festis. Hank was a little old (about sixty), but he had a fine farm adjoining the Chesney place, and the match was an ideal one from the father's point of view.

"You won't take her nor yourself," he snarled. "I told you I had a job for you. You get every Sunday, don't you? And I give you the Fourth o' July without dockin' ye!"

"I'm going to the circus," said Jim coldly. "If Drucie wants to come she can come with me. I'll be glad to have her."

"You ain't neither of ye goin'," said Silas as he stumped out of the kitchen. That settled it so far as he was concerned. He did not even trouble to stay home on circus day to see that his commands were carried out. He was accustomed to being obeyed. That there could be defiance of his wishes was a thing not to be dreamed of. He had business at Center Mills, and he drove off early in the morning with a final negative to the tearful Drucilla's appeals.

Jim watched him drive off, and when at last the gray team disappeared over the hill he came toward the house. Martha Chesney was bustling about the kitchen while Drucilla sat on the back porch paring the potatoes.

"GET OUTER HERE," HE CRIED. "I DON'T WANT NONE O' YE ABOUT ME."

"Going to the circus?" Jim asked cheerfully. "It's about time we got ready."

"I can't." Drucilla's face turned grave at the suggestion of disobedience to the paternal command.

"Look here," said Jim, calmly dropping down upon the lowest step. "It's about time that something was done to show your pa that you've got some rights. I bet old man Festis won't take you to the circus when you marry him."

"Who said she was goin' to marry Hank Festis?" demanded Mrs. Chesney, coming to the door.

"Everybody—and Mr. Chesney," was the scornful answer.

"She's not going to marry a man old enough to be her grandfather even if he's got a farm as big as this whole county," declared Martha.

"Just what I say," declared Jim amiably. "We could go to the circus as a sort of honeymoon."

Drucie clasped her hands. Long ago she had confessed her love for Jim even while she told him that her father would never give his consent. This suggestion of elopement fairly took her breath away. A circus—her first circus—and a marriage on the same day! It seemed too wonderful to be true, yet Jim was talking about it as calmly as though being married were an everyday affair.

"Why not?" he demanded. "It'll take an hour to drive to town. We can see the street parade, go get married and see the afternoon show. Old Martha will come over from the poor farm to look after the house."

In the end it was even as he had planned. Silas Chesney came home to find the house deserted save for old Martha sitting on the porch. She was very deaf, and only by dint of much shouting did he learn that his folks had gone off with Peters to the circus.

He made a solitary meal and then went out on the front stoop to await the return of the runaways. Jim had insisted upon a supper at a restaurant after the show as a windup to the celebration, and it was late when they drove into the yard. For several hours Silas had been letting his wrath gather strength, and he came storming across the grass as they drove down the side path.

"Get outer here," he cried. "I don't want none o' ye about me, ye deceitful critters. I told ye not to go to the circus. Get outer here."

Jim obediently turned the team and headed for the gate. Silas came running after them.

"What be ye doin'?" he demanded. "You're runnin' away with my team."

"We'll get out and walk then," said Jim promptly, jumping to the ground. "Come, Drucie."

The girl sprang down and he caught her in his arms, implanting a sounding kiss upon her lips before he released her. Then he helped Mrs. Chesney out and the trio started for the gate.

"What are you doin' now?" howled Silas. Jim turned with well affected surprise.

"You turned us out and cast us off," he said. "We're going. Tim Newbury offered me his north farm on half shares. I'm going to take his offer. My wife and her mother are going with me."

"Your what?" Silas could scarcely believe his ears.

"My wife," explained Jim politely. "You'll have to hire a man at full price and hire a girl too. Mrs. Chesney wants to come with me. I'll give her the egg money for keeps."

Silas' jaw dropped. Jim had picked out the most potent argument and with it he had won. Silas moved toward the house.

"You folks will catch your death of colds if you don't come inside," he growled. "Come along, Marthy."

Drucie followed Jim out to the stable to hold the lantern while he unharnessed the horses.

"When did Mr. Newbury make you that offer?" she demanded curiously.

"Last year," explained Jim. "I guess your pa ain't the only one that can bluff around here—not when I've got you to bluff for."

Chose Crown From Cannon.

Neither King Carol of Roumania nor his queen, known in the world of literature as Carmen Sylva, had any desire for regal honors, and when the assassination of Czar Alexander in 1881 forced them on Roumania's unhappy throne they went protestingly. Carol finally consented to be king, but declared he would never sit upon a throne or wear a crown.

The chamber and senate at Bucharest insisted, declaring the people wanted and had a right to expect symbols of royalty. Carol protested that a coronation ceremony would make himself and his wife ridiculous, "like actors in a play," but was forced to yield and get himself a crown.

But no headgear of silks and precious stones for him. He sent to the arsenal for one of the cannons captured from the Turks, ordered that it be melted down and from its steel a crown be made, "in remembrance of the brave Roumanian blood shed for liberty." And with this he was crowned.

Carmen Sylva said of her husband's crown, "No crown, surely, ever spoke as this one spoke in days gone by, when it roared and thundered night and day and reeked with smoke and flame."—New York Times.

Thunderstorms.

Do not imagine that because a heavy thunderstorm is far away to leeward it is not likely to arise and wet you. Even if the wind is blowing right against the cloud it will come your way all the more surely, for thunderstorms always travel against the wind. The reason for this is that there is invariably a countercurrent of air above the breeze that you feel close to the earth, and this sky high wind blows in the opposite direction to the one which alone you can detect. Thus the tempest seems to work its way right through the wind's eyes in a very contrary sort of way. Fog never does this; neither does ordinary rain—at least very seldom—but snow or sleet sometimes works its way up wind just as the tempest does. Sheet lightning, by the way, is not a distinctive sort of light, but merely the reflection in the sky of a forked flash many miles away. You can tell how far away a tempest is by counting the number of seconds that pass between the flash and the peal. Each second stands for about a mile.—New York Herald.

Parsimony Means Health.

"Did you ever notice," said a prominent physical culture teacher of New York, "that parsimonious people almost always enjoy good health and long life? Eating has a great deal to do with this. We learn that one wealthy person lunches always on a cup of tea and a doughnut; that the great standby of another was apples.

"It is not only that they eat frugally that accounts for their excellent health, but that there is so much regularity in their diet. The first thing the economical person does, as a rule, is to reduce living to a system. He studies how he can subsist best for the least money, and then allows himself very little variety from the regular order of things.

"Regularity of diet means a great saving of time and money in his eyes, and, whether he knows it or not, in adopting a rule of eating there is nothing which counts so much in building up a robust constitution."—New York Press.

Ancient and Modern Bathing.

Soap is really quite a new factor in the world's life. Most of our ancestors were filthy and dissembled the fact by the use of stifling perfumes. Washing one's hands, which was only done by the very best people, meant dipping the fingers in rose water and drying them on a napkin. Even the Romans of the decadence, who were probably cleaner as a community than any before or since, bathed in water and rubbed themselves with oil. It sounds nasty to us, but then so does, for example, Chinese music, which millions of human beings think delightful.

Jack Tar's Reply.

A sailor was brought before a magistrate for beating his wife, when the magistrate attempted to reach his heart by asking him if he did not know that his wife was the "weakest vessel."

"If she is, she ought not to carry so much sail," replied Jack.—London Tit-Bits.

He Brought Them.

The story of how William Le Baron Jenney saved a section of Grant's army at Shiloh not only illustrates Jenney's resourcefulness as an engineer, but throws an interesting side light on the great general.

Part of Grant's troops, almost overwhelmed, were holding the river bank. It was imperative that they be brought across. Grant ordered Jenney to bring them. Jenney rode down and discovered some rusty, battered steamers which had not had fire in them for weeks. There was no wood, coal or other fuel. He rode to Grant and reported.

"What did I send you down there to do?" asked Grant quietly.

"Why," stammered Jenney, "to bring those troops across."

"Well," rejoined Grant, "go bring them."

Jenney went. He had the order. First he tore away the upper works, wheelhouses and decks and fed them to the furnaces. Nothing more was in sight. An inspiration seized him. He levied on the commissary stores, and he got up steam and brought those troops across by burning thousands of dollars' worth of hams and crackers in the furnaces.

The hams and crackers were charged to Grant's personal account, and he as a joke switched and charged it against Jenney's salary, and it was canceled after the war.—Chicago Tribune.

He Was Short.

Joakley—Queer thing about that tall man over there. All his intimate friends call him "Short." Poakley—Ah, just for a joke, I suppose. Joakley—No, because that's his name.

He Knew Her.

Mrs. Boofer (meditatively over her book)—How true this is! Mr. Boofer (bracing himself)—Well, Maria, don't keep me in suspense. What is it about us men?—Puck.

ANNETTE AND THE ANGEL CHILD.

By TEMPLE BAILEY.

Copyrighted, 1907, by P. C. Eastment.

Annette was from Baltimore. She was little and brown haired and coquettish. The angel child had come out of the west. He was big and blond and the strongest man in the summer school.

"Why do you bother with him?" Annette's best friend asked reproachfully.

"He amuses me," said Annette and flashed a bright glance across the table, which glance the angel child met with rapture.

"Will you go for a walk with me?" asked the angel child as they went out of the dining room together.

"Not until Saturday," Annette said. "Tomorrow I am going with the professor of chemistry, and on Thursday I go with the professor of English, and on Friday I go with the lecturer on pedagogy."

"MAY I TAKE YOU HOME?" HE ASKED.

"But the lecturer on pedagogy is married," said the blond giant, staring at her.

"But he is very nice," said Annette, "and his wife is not here."

The angel child walked on in silence for a moment, and then he stammered, "I wouldn't if I were you."

"Wouldn't what?" asked Annette.

"Well, I wouldn't walk with the lecturer on pedagogy," said the angel child.

"I don't think it is your affair," Annette told him with dangerous sweetness, "and if you don't mind I will break that engagement to walk with you on Saturday. I don't like to be lectured."

"He was perfectly right," Annette's best friend scolded that night as Annette sat on the foot of the bed in a distracting red kimono and recounted the conquests of the day. "You haven't any right to walk with a married man."

"I don't want to take the walk," Annette confided, "but I won't be lectured—not by the angel child."

"I don't see why you take such an interest in him," said the best friend. "That baby stare of his is perfectly idiotic."

"That's why I call him the angel child," Annette said. "He's positively seraphic at times."

"But he wears such clothes!"

"He is studying forestry," Annette reminded her. "He can't robe himself in white flannel."

The best friend sat up in bed and eyed her severely.

"You know you will lead him on and he'll fall in love with you, and then—you'll break his heart."

"Who knows?" said Annette, but her eyes laughed, and her best friend said: "You haven't any heart. Oh, you haven't any heart, Annette!"

On Friday Annette took her walk with the lecturer on pedagogy. Halfway up the hill that led to the High rock they met the angel child. Ostensibly he was studying trees, but he joined them and walked with them to the top of the hill, and when they came down he walked with them to the school.

"I won't have you chaperoning me," Annette told him that night furiously.

He blushed deeply.

"I won't have you talked about. I love you too well."

"Oh," said little Annette, "do you really love me?"

"You know I do," said the angel child. "And I know it is hopeless. But that doesn't make any difference. I shall love you just the same."

"Now see what you have done," said Annette's best friend when the little lady told her.

Annette, braiding her long brown locks for the night, looked through her lashes.

"He's big and strong," she said dreamily. "The other men seem like dwarfs beside him."

"He's like a baby in your hands," said the best friend. "You have broken his heart."

"It won't hurt him," Annette affirmed. "Every man has to fall in love, and why not with me?"

But it did hurt him, and he left the boarding house where Annette took her meals, and when she met him going to and fro from the class rooms he looked pale and weary.

Annette, however, continued to flirt with the lecturer on pedagogy.

"You are getting yourself talked about," said the best friend, "you are seen with him so often."

"He's the only interesting man here," Annette sighed wearily. "The professor of English and the professor of chemistry are sticks, and the other professors are old, and the angel child has forgotten me."

"What?" exclaimed the best friend.

"Yes," Annette said, "he doesn't love me any more. He thinks of nothing but trees. I haven't seen him for two weeks. He doesn't love me any more."

She curled herself up on the couch so that her face was away from her friend, but her voice quivered.

"I believe you are crying," said the best friend.

"I am not," sobbed Annette, and her best friend flew to her and put her arms about her and they turned off the lights and talked about it in the dark, and Annette confessed that she loved the angel child.

"But he has heard the things about me and the lecturer on pedagogy and he doesn't care any more. And when he didn't care I began to care," said little Annette.

"Of course," said the best friend.

After that Annette flirted more recklessly than ever, and on the last Saturday of the term she went for a ride with the lecturer on pedagogy.

On the way the lecturer quoted Browning.

"It's our last ride together," he quavered sentimentally.

The road led them in and out and in and out between lines of tall bushes, and there was a stretch of woodland where the trees met overhead and where it was so quiet that all the forest seemed to listen as the lecturer on pedagogy leaned over and kissed Annette.

"Oh," cried Annette with her eyes blazing, "how dare you!"

"You might have expected it," said the lecturer on pedagogy calmly; "you have flirted with me for five weeks."

"But no gentleman would do such a thing," said Annette.

"Most gentlemen do," said the lecturer on pedagogy and leaned over to do it again.

Annette gave a little cry, and just then out from the bushes stepped the angel child.

He stood in the middle of the road, barring the way, and he looked straight at Annette.

"May I take you home?" he asked, ignoring the lecturer on pedagogy.

"Oh, if you will!" she wailed and held out her hands to him.

"I shall take her home," said the lecturer on pedagogy, frowning darkly. "Stand out of the way."

But the angel child set his shoulders like a young giant.

"I don't think we will argue the case," he said. "I shall take her home."

And the lecturer on pedagogy, taking in the length and breadth and strength of the tall young man, muttered an invective and rode away alone.

Annette was sobbing with her face in her horse's mane.

The angel child touched her hair with tender fingers.

"Don't cry," he begged, "don't."

But Annette sobbed on. "I didn't dream he would do such a thing."

"Any man would be—tempted."

"But he is married, and that makes it wrong."

"Then as I am not married would it be right"—

His tone was eager. He was standing close to her, and as Annette looked up and saw the adoration in his blue eyes she substituted the lapel of his coat for the horse's mane and sobbed comfortably on his shoulder.

Amazement and rapture were blended in his glance as he bent over her.

"Would it be right—if I kissed—you?" he stammered.

Annette's eyelashes fluttered up from her tear wet eyes.

"Oh, why didn't you do it five weeks ago?" she reproached him.

A Quaint Picture of Harvey.

He (William Harvey) was not tall, but of the lowest stature, round faced, olivaster complexion; little ele, round, very black, full of spirit; his haire was black as a raven, but quite white twenty yeares before he dyed. I have heard him say, that after his booke of the Circulation of the Blood came-out, that he fell mightily in his practize, and that 'twas beleeved by the vulgar that he was crack-brained; and all the physitians were against his opinion, and anvyed him; many wrote against him. With much adoe at last, in about twenty or thirty yeares time, it was received in all the Universities in the world; and, as Mr. Hobbes sayes in his book "De Corpore," he is the only man, perhaps, that ever lived to see his owne doctrine established in his lifetime.

He was much and often troubled with the gowte, and his way of cure was thus; he would then sitt with his legges bare, if it were frost, on the leads of Cockaine house, putt them into a payle of water, till he was almost dead with cold, and betake himselfe to his stove, and so 'twas gonne. He was hott-headed, and his thoughts working would many times keepe him from sleepinge; he told me that then his way was to rise out of his bed and walke about his chamber in his shirt till he was pretty coole, i. e., till he began to have a horror, and then returne to bed, and sleepe very comfortably.—Aubrey's "Lives."

$10 A WEEK NOT ENOUGH

So he Rebuked his Congregation and Resigned

WASN'T A SQUARE DEAL

Rev. E. W. Middleton, of Philadelphia, Scathingly Arraigned the Church Folk for their Parsimonious Conduct During Fourteen Years.

IMPOSSIBLE TO LIVE ON TEN A WEEK

Philadelphia, September 6.—Bitterly rebuking the congregation of the Tioga Reformed church, Park avenue and Westmoreland street, which he organized fourteen years ago, because they have paid him only $10 a week, the Rev. E. W. Middleton, the pastor, compelled the congregation to accept his resignation, Wednesday night. The members of the church at first voted to decline to accept the resignation, but, after the preacher's scathing arraignment, it was accepted by a vote of 16 to 12.

"I have been preaching fourteen years and have been getting only $10 a week from you," said the pastor. There is many a young man just out of the seminary who is getting that much and more. Do you call that a square deal? There are some people in this congregation who have no idea of the meaning of the word responsibility. They have taken upon themselves certain obligations and yet they attend services irregularly and contribute whatever it suits them regardless of what is necessary. Some of the elders, who are supposed to be councillors of the minister on all occasions, have only been present at the services two Sundays in the year.

"Why, I don't get enough salary from you to live on comfortably, let alone have things all ministers should have. If it hadn't been for my faith in the loving God I would have taken this action long ago.

"Have you been true to your God? Have you been true to me as your friend and as your pastor? Answer that question yourself.

"It grieves me to talk this way. It makes my heart ache, but as a minister, I felt it my duty to call you to account."

The Salvation Army.

The Salvation Army has become one of the institutions of this town and neighborhood, while its work literally reaches from pole to pole. It is, therefore, interesting to note that special efforts are to be made locally in connection with the Harvest Festival celebrations, to enlist sympathy and financial support for the many and varied enterprises of The Army; a few statistics will help our readers to realize what they are.

The Army carries on its general operations in fify-two countries of the world, preaching a simple gospel of salvation for all in thirty languages. There are 15,007 officers and cadets wholly given up to the work, and no less than 44,418 local officers and 18,500 bandsmen, who work hard without fee or reward and contribute very largely of their small means to the necessities of the war against sin and evil.

The social side of the work, which everybody, of no creed, must admire is so vast as to be indescribable in a short paragraph, it embraces practical assistance for the starving and helpless, Labor Homes, Farm Colonies, institutions for deserted women and children, etc.

The special effort that is now being put forth in connection with the Harvest Festival gives one and all an opportunity to help both in the local and national work. We are trying to raise one hundred dollars for our target this year.

Yours truly,
C. I. HENDERSON.

Coming Hebrew Holidays.

The local Hebrews are preparing to observe their New Year's day, Monday September, 9. New Year's day is a holiday for all Hebrews and all places of business conducted by them will be closed on that day.

Wednesday, September 17, will be the Day of Atonement and all Hebrews will observe the event by fasting from sundown Tuesday evening, September 16, to sundown Wednesday evening.

The Feast of the Tabernacle will be observed on the evening of September 22.

WHOOPING COUGH

Physicians Required to Report Cases to Board of Health.

Physicians are required to report to the board of health all cases of whooping cough, measles, mumps and chicken pox, as well as cases of communicable diseases which are generally considered more serious than these ailments of children.

Regarding whooping cough the State Health department has issued the following rules to be observed in the care and management of cases:

Whooping cough, with its associated complications is a very fatal disease, especially in infants and young children therefore it is always advisable to summon a physician and make every possible effort to prevent the spread of the disease. The patient should be kept entirely away from other children or adults who have not had the disease. If confined to a room, the windows should be screened, and all upholstered furniture and curtains should be taken out. An abundance of fresh air should be admitted to the room, but the patient should be protected from direct draughts. The air of a sick room cannot be disinfected during its occupancy by the patient. The practice of hanging up clothes saturated with carbolic acid or of placing saucers of chlorinated lime or proprietary disinfectants in the sick room is not only annoying to the patient but utterly useless, if not injurious.

All bed and body clothing, including handkerchiefs, towels, napkins, cloths, etc., used for the collection of discharges from the mouth and nose, or soiled by vomited matter, should be disinfected before being taken from the sick room. For this purpose, use a solution made by dissolving one-quarter of a pound of chlorinated lime [oleaching powder] in eight gallons of water, allowing such articles to remain in the solution at least three hours before being washed. All eating utensils should be scalded and remnants of food burned.

Following the recovery, death or removal of the patient the sick room and its contents should be disinfected with formaldehyde gas. In using formaldehyde gas for disinfection, the air of the room should be both warm and moist. The latter may be accomplished by sprinkling the floor or by suspending wet sheet around the room. In the preparation of the room for such disinfection, it should be sealed with strips of gummed paper or surgeons' plaster, closing flues, ventilators, chimney places and all visible cracks and crevices about walls, doors and windows. Open up beds, stand mattresses on end, open closets, bureau drawers, trunks, etc., and spread their contents about the room. When the room is properly sealed, pour the formaldehyde solution upon the crystals from a wide mouthed vessel that it may be done quickly and made a hasty retreat. Carefully seal the door of exit, including the key-hole and crevices about the door knob and allow the room to remain closed at least six hours.

After the necessary cleaning the window should be opened and the room thoroughly aired for two days before it is again occupied. As disinfectant agents are poisonous when taken internally, such drugs and solutions should be plainly labelled and kept out of the reach of children.

Those suffering from this disease will not be permitted to attend school prior to the issuance of a certificate by the attending physician, or in cases where no physician has been in attendance, a certificate from the health officer which sets forth that all precautions have been observed to prevent the spread of disease. Other children in the households not contracting the disease at the end of twenty-one days from the date of the first appearance of the disease in the house may return to school provided they have not been exposed to the sick during that time.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

ELEVEN MET DEATH

Fast Express in Collision With a Freight,

A DOZEN WERE HURT.

The Passenger Train Left the Rail and Crashed into a Freight that was Standing on a Siding—List of the Victims.

VICTIMS CRUSHED AND MANGLED.

Waterloo, Iowa, September 6th.—Eleven persons were killed and a dozen were injured today when a north bound Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific passenger train left the rails at Norris, Iowa, and crashed into a south bound freight train standing on a siding. The dead are:

C. B. Cliber, J. B. Lamphere and William Smith, all of Iowa; eight unidentified bodies.

Severely injured; Dr. Charles J. O'Keefe, leg crushed; W. H. Meyers, arms and legs crushed; Thomas Evenson, leg broken; J. A. Newell, conductor, arm torn off; F. H. Douglass, Waterloo, collar bone and arm broken.

The injured were brought to Waterloo hospital. All of the dead and injured were in the smoking car, which was immediately behind the baggage car. The smoking car was demolished. The north bound express was three minutes late at Norris, where the freight train was awaiting. The express came along at terrific speed in an effort to make up time. Just as the locomotive of the passenger train was about to pass the freight locomotive, the thr trucks of the former left the track, wrecking both locomotives and telescoping the baggage and the mail cars and demolishing the smoking car.

The passengers in the two day coaches following the smoking car escaped with a violent shaking up. Rescuers were immediately at hand to care for the injured and to take the dead from the wreck.

THE WOMAN WHO COUGHED.

Catarrh had nearly ruined me. It had eaten away the partition in my nose; produced Asthma, Bronchitis, Rheumatism; ruined my stomach; in fact, gone all through my system. Then Grip finished me. I was a wreck; took cold at nothing; and coughed day and night. The doctors dosed me with opium and quinine. No good. Cough "cures"? Bah! Then Brazilian Balm renovated me. Killed every germ. Took 10 $1.00 bottles. Now I'm like a girl of 18.

BRIEF MENTION

Short Items of Local Interest Gathered By The Way Side

—The Herald Square Stock Company left Sunday for Berwick.

—Good evening! Time to think about filling that coal bin, isn't it?

—The "Theatorium" seems to be drawing large crowds these nights.

—The only trouble is that a great many people who mean well, are people of such very small means.

—The veterans and sons of veterans of Centre county will reune at Grange Park, Tuesday, Sept 17.

—The crowd was small at the train Sunday evening. Perhaps another cop is lurking around.

—A horse without any harness ran around over the streets Saturday evening. Some one must have had a run away.

—For some reason Fred Larimer left at the Gatesburg Bank and when he quit 32 dagoes picked up their buckets and jacked their jobs.

—Mr. and Mrs. John Houser are rejoicing over the arrival of a bouncing baby girl. Both Mrs. Houser and the young daughter are getting along nicely.

—John Sourbeck Jr. has been very ill the past few days at his home on High St. He is better today and we hope he will soon be able to be around.

—A magnificent porch is being erected in front of the Benner sisters home oh High street, and when completed will make a big improvement to their home.

—Miss Walker who was taken to the hospital on Saturday received an operation on Monday and it was a very serious one. We sincerely hope she will soon get well.

—Someone, some dog, or something stole four chickens from Jack Deckers cooler. Now this is going the limit and hereafter a nice big bull dog will greet the visitor after night.

—A batch of cars left the yards at the Nittany furnace on Saturday and the brakes wouldn't work, the result was they were not stopped until they reached Kisscarts shanty near the station.

—Saturday and Sunday a twenty-four hour turn, one hundred and ten tons of iron was made at the Bellefonte Furnace. They claim this is a dandy out-put as the furnace has only been in operation a couple of days.

—The Munson home on Allegheny street is nearing completion and when finished will be one of the prettiest homes in the town. The roof will be put on this week and the inside work started immediately afterwards.

—The igranddaughter of "Stonewal" Jackson "ran away" and got married recently. It is not thought that she inherited any of her "running away" ability from her grandfather, though her willingness to get into a fight at any cost looks real Jacksonesque.

—Those citizens who have not yet registered and who need a tax receipt to make them legal voters should not forget to attend to the matter before the 17th of the month. While there is not going to be much excitement in the pending campaign everybody should be qualified to vote.

—The trains on the Bald Eagle Valley seem to be running rather late the past few days. At Milesburg Saturday evening 54 jumped the track and didn't get away from there until 12 o'clock. An engine broke down at Hannah on Monday evening the result was the train did not reach Bellefonte until 10 o'clock. Tuesday morning the Lewisburg train did not reach Bellefonte until nearly 11 a. m.

—Night rates on the long distance telephone, controlled by the Bell Telephone company, were abolished Saturday night. An official announcement sent out from the offices of the Bell company, Thursday stated that owing "to the congestion of traffic which occurs when night rates take effect, it has been decided to cancel the night rates and charge day rates on all messages passing over the lines of the companies named."

—Another baby was abandoned in Tyrone Thursday night. People from elsewhere seem determined to whoop up Tyrone's population as if local parents are not keeping the pace that the town should have. The newest waif was left in a basket on the porch of George W. Bullock's residence, on Cameron avenue, where it was found about half past nine o'clock. The police were at once notified and the little one found a good home soon after. Mr. and Mrs. John A. Howard, of Adams avenue, adoptinz the infant. The local sleuths are working upon a clue which promises to disclose the parentage of the child.

O'Reilly in the broker's office in this city, but who left for the far west a couple of months ago, and accepted a position with a railroad company as telegraph operator, has resigned his position with the railroad company and has gone to Liberty, Mo., where he has entered as a student in the William Jewel college, an institution of learning which in the west ranks with Yale and Harvard in the east.

It is Mr. Brosius' intention to abandon his former pursuits forever and take a three years' course at this college, after which he will take a four years' course at Rush Medical college at Chicago.

It will be gratifying news to Mr. Brosius' many friends in this city to learn that some day in the near future he will have M. D. attached to his name and rank among the distinguished men of some city. Bruce has the natural ability and the application to make a first class professional man and his early day associates and friends will be only to glad to address him as "Doc" Brosius. Mr. Brosius is a brother of Miss Brosius who is employed in Joseph Brothers & Co., store.—Lock Haven Democrat.

Big Wreck at Milesburg.

Thursday morning at 20 minutes o seven 6 cars piled up on top of one another right in front of Kohlbeckers at Milesburg. 4 cars of coal and 2 of pig iron. The track was thrown up for a distance of 300 feet, the cause of the wreck was the spreading of a rail. No one was hurt as all the brakeman were back in the cabin. 4 of the cars are laying along the track near the hotel. Coal and pig iron was distributed in every direction. Metzy the mixologist at Kelly's says that it was the most excitement Milesburg has had since he arrived there This little delay so early in the morning gave the "brakers" a chance to wet their whistles.

A Tennis Game on Sunday.

A bunch of Bellefonte sports, young men who come from good christian homes went to Hecla Park and played lawn tennis all afternoon on Sunday. They may not have seen any harm in doing this, but their was harm in it, and we don't think the head management of the Central Railroad of Pennsylvania would have allowed this to happen on these grounds had they of known it. We don't care whether the parties like this notice or not, the next time the game is played we will men the names of those who participated in the same.
